Colma Mayor's Wife in Bias Case

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A complaint charging that the wife of Colma Mayor Raymond Ottoboni discriminates in renting housing to blacks has been filed with the San Mateo County Human Relations Commission.

The aggrieved, a black couple living in the county, have elected not to pursue the matter in court under provisions of the Unruh Civil Rights Act and related legislation on discrimination in housing.

But the charges were investigated by the HRC in recent weeks and the commission is expected to discuss the matter further, HRC Executive Director James Forrest said yesterday.

Forrest acknowledged he began "Operation Sentinel" after receiving the complaint against Mrs. Mae Ottoboni which charged alleged discrimination in renting housing.

The couple filed an initial complaint with the Stanford Urban Coalition, but declined further pursuit of the matter, a commission spokesman said.

In turn, the matter was turned over to the HRC for investigation.

"After an official complaint was filed, the quick reaction of the commission brought about a verification of discrimination in checking out the validity of the complaint," an HRC release explained.

The first phase of the investigation used a black person in an attempt to secure a rental from Mrs. Ottoboni, it is alleged. Next a white individual was used in an attempt to rent a house. Thirdly, a black was again assigned by the commission to make yet another try at renting a two-bedroom apartment, the report stated.

As a result of inquiries "a pattern of race discrimination evolved in that the first seeker — black — was told that only a studio was available for rent.

"The second seeker — white was told that a two-bedroom apartment and a two-bedroom house was available.

"The third checker — black — was again told that only a studio was available for rent and that it wouldn't be ready for occupancy until July because it was a garage and needed much repair," the HRC release said.

In each case Mrs. Ottoboni, of 435 F Street, Colma, was the person contacted concerning the rentals, according to the complaint.

Forrest said the HRC "is not trying to 'get' anybody."

"We are simply pointing out the law in regards to housing. This is the law," he said.

"Operation Sentinel" is a program designed to fight discrimination in housing throughout the Bay Area. It is sponsored by the Stanford Urban Coalition and Mid-Peninsula Citizens for Fair Housing.

The HRC is regarded as a strong supporter of the program which involves commercials on television and radio informing the general public what steps to take if and when they think they are being discriminated against by landlords or their representatives.

Tall, Blonde

Miss Daly City New Dream Girl

A tall blonde from Daly City was named Fiesta Dream Girl at the annual county beauty contest Friday at the Fairgrounds.

Dianne Wagner narrowly edged out Susan Howard of Belmont for the top spot. If Miss Belmont had won it would have given that city the two top beauty ratings in the area. Only last week Carolyn Stoner of Belmont was named Miss California at Santa Cruz.

Dianne's dance training showed in her poise and posture as she brought the top honors back to the North County. She defeated 14 other contestants for the title and the right to reign over the 37th annual San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, July 26 through Aug. 7.

Meg Bates of Foster City was second runner-up.

The fair-complexioned, 36-25-36 Dianne succeeds Carleene McBurney of San Carlos as San Mateo County's official "most beautiful girl." She is 19, weighs 121 pounds and stands 5 feet, 7 inches tall.

Some 500 people were in attendance.

The new Dream Girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wagner of 1063 Eighty-seventh Street, Daly City.

She is currently studying ballet at the Peninsula Ballet Theatre School and someday wants to perform with the American Ballet Company.

For winning the pageant, the Dream Girl will receive a high-fashioned wardrobe from Macy's Hillsdale; a four-day trip to San Diego via PSA with accommodations provided by the Master Hosts Inn Stardust Country Club Hotel and the use of a Valcar during her stay; a cash gift from the California Jockey Club; an overnight case from Edward's Luggage; a beauty and charm course from the House of Charm in San Francisco; hairstyling throughout the Fair by Mister Lee of San Mateo and San Francisco; and gifts from radio station KFRC and its sponsors.

Judges for this year's contest were: Len Rohde, offensive tackle for the San Francisco 49ers; Al Eaton, Director of the Young Californians — a teen-age singing group; Owen Spann, radio and TV personality; Monique Benoit, free lance writer and beauty consultant; and R. C. Owens, former 49er All-Pro flanker now a public relations consultant with Penney's.

2 Teachers Sue JESD to Regain Jobs

Two women who were fired as teachers by the Jefferson School District have filed suit in Superior Court seeking an order to force the district to rehire them.

The suit, filed by attorney Paul Hupf on behalf of Mrs. Judith Pierce, who was an art teacher at Benjamin Franklin School, and of Mrs. Arleen Wright who was a second grade teacher at Christopher Columbus School. asks that the district's action in declining to rehire the teachers be declared null and void.

Both instructors were informed by the district's board of trustees May 25 that they would not be rehired next year. The decision followed recommendations of hearing officers who heard appeals of the two to the notification their services would no longer be required.

It is alleged in the suit that the women received no reply from the district on requests that they be permitted to review evidence on which the district based its decision, that the district failed to file the decision of the hearing officers before May 7, as required, and that it gave no notice to the women that he dismissal matter was on the board's May 25 meeting agenda.

Among allegations against Mrs. Pierce are that she failed to control her classes, maintained an untidy classroom and was not receptive to suggestions and criticism. Mrs. Wright was accused of permitting pupils to handle cupric sulfate used in a classroom experiment, and that one youngster ate some, becoming ill.

Skyline's Building Approved

North County spokesmen were out in force Wednesday at Skyline College, San Bruno, to make sure the Board of Trustees of the San Mateo Junior College District meeting there would go ahead with the construction of a much-needed building at Skyline.

The emphasis was on letting the board members know that people in the North County — who have long felt neglected in almost all county-wide matters — expect the junior college district to complete Skyline as soon as possible and to proceed with the construction of the proposed student center - library - cafeteria building as soon as possible.

Several speakers from the community recited what amounted to a litany of North County complaints about treatment received from the district.

As for the board members, they made it clear that it has never been their intention to slight the North County in any way. They said it is the policy of this board to finish Skyline as quickly as possible. The planning for the construction of this latest $2.4 million building is being rushed, they said.

One stumbling block so far, however, has proved to be the financing of the large complex which is scheduled to house facilities for a variety of student needs.

Trustee Carl Ward told the audience that recent appraisals of the district's downtown San Mateo Baldwin Avenue property (on which the U.S. Navy has a four-year lease) show that the property is worth about $1 million at this time.

Combined with federal and state grants worth over $1.2 million, the sale of the Baldwin property would almost cover the Skyline construction. However, since the sale of the Baldwin land (which had been ticketed for Mills Memorial Hospital) hasn't been expedited as yet, it

Broadmoor Might Lose Library Use

Residents of Broadmoor Village may be out of public reading material after Thursday.

Although Daly City has made repeated requests to the county in recent weeks for renewal of contracts that provide Broadmoor with library services there has been no response, according to assistant to the city manager Don Fleming.

Unless contracts are pushed through library services will cease on Thursday, Fleming said.

The city council was informed Monday that contact had been made with Virginia Ross, head of the county library system.

She notified the city a response would be forthcoming upon her return from an official trip, Fleming said.

"The county has shown little or no interest in renewing a contract for the residents of Broadmoor," Fleming charged.

Last year, approximately 1500 Broadmoor residents used the Daly City libraries. The county's cost of funding the program is $10,000.

Clinic Seeks County Dollars

A group of North San Mateo County residents appeared before the Board of Supervisors' 1971-72 budget study session Thursday to request that $67,000 be appropriated to help get the proposed Guadalupe Health Center started in Daly City.

"There is nothing going for us in the North County," spokesman Miss Shelly Fernandez told the board.

She cited the large number of poor Spanish speaking residents, some of whom are unaware of county health services, and others who have no transportation to reach the health facilities at Chope Community Hospital.

Various private organizations have joined to help fund the clinic, with rent paid for one month in an old building in Daly City, but additional funds are needed to get the program rolling, Miss Fernandez said.

The board, which was hearing of the proposal for the first time, was informed by County Manager M.D. Tarshes that County Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett had discussed the matter with the health center proponents and has acknowledged the need.

However, he added, there are "very substantial" costs involved, and "I don't know where the money would come from."

Board chairman informed Miss Fernandez and the group accompanying her to the meeting that before any funds could be appropriated the board would have to have a study and advice on the program from its administrative staff.

The amount requested is "practically nothing" as far as providing health services go, Fitzgerald said, adding that a health center probably would entail hundreds of thousands of dollars in costs.

Supervisor Jean Fassler, a member of the advisory board of Mary's Help Hospital, said it was her understanding when the hospital was built that it was to meet the medical needs of the North County. She proposed an in-depth study of the situation.

Supervisor Gerald Day said he would like to find a way to crank the health center into the county's health program.

The County Board of Supervisors held out hope Friday to Daly City area proponents of a north county health center that funds will be made available if a study shows the center is feasible.

A group representing the Guadalupe Health Center appeared before the board Thursday to seek $67,000 from the county to help finance the clinic. The board decided to hear what County Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett had to say when he appeared before Friday's budget meeting.

The latter cited the need for a long-range plan to utilize the existing resources of his department (more than a half-million square feet of space in 19 locations throughout the county) and to designate priorities.

"We have an obligation to utilize existing resources more effectively," he stated.

On that basis, Dr. Pickett indicated he was not ready to commit funds for a new health center location without a study, but added that he would encourage improvements in North County health services.

At the insistence of Supervisor Robert St. Clair, the board requested Dr. Pickett to pay special heed to North County needs in the study. Supervisors also indicated they will appropriate contingency funds to implement county participation in the clinic if the study shows it is warranted.

Should City Councils Make Laws to 'Protect' Some Kinds of Businesses?

Should a city council pass laws designed to "protect" certain types of businesses within a community?

Or should a council concern itself solely with deciding the proper use of land based on location and projected tax base?

These were the two main questions facing Daly City city councilmen Monday in connection with rezoning of a parcel of land at the corner of Serramonte and Callan boulevards from R-3 (apartments) to planned development (PD).

A scattering of opponents to construction of a service station at the site—adjacent to the Chinese Cemetery—asked the council to deny the rezoning application.

But the council, after hearing arguments from both sides in the dispute, closed the public hearing leaving the audience with the impression the permit for the service station would be granted. The council will consider the matter again in two weeks.

Mayor Bernard Lycett said opponents to the station were putting him in a position of trying to run other people's businesses.

"How can I legislate businesses?" Lycett asked. "If I tell a service station they can't come in because they might hurt another service station, perhaps I should apply this same thinking to shoe stores."

Robert Loeloff, of 4390 Callan Boulevard, argued there are so many service stations in his area with stuffing Ping-pong balls into a tube: "When you push one in the end of the already full tube, one pops out the other end."

Councilman McRobert Stewart corrected Loeloff when it was pointed out to the council that there already were nine service stations in the Serramonte development.

There are nine stations, Stewart acknowledged, however, most are in South San Francisco.

Arguing against "protection" of existing service stations by denying construction of a new station, both Stewart and Councilman Louis Papan agreed such business restrictions were not in the purview of the city.

The council must look to a man that invests his money in a business venture as knowing exactly what he is doing, Lycett said.

No Agreement on D.C. Salaries

With only two days remaining in this fiscal year, Daly City has been unable to reach salary agreements with three of its employees' organizations — police, fire and miscellaneous employees.

A special meeting has been called by Mayor Bernard Lycett for today at 2 p.m. in the hope the city will have reached agreement with the three groups by that time.

"We intend to act on adoption of the budget with or without agreements (on Wednesday)," Lycett said.

Proposed Texts to Be Studied

By WILL THOMAS

A tempest of sorts might have been averted when Jefferson Elementary School District trustees directed a parent-teacher committee to review new social studies textbooks next fall.

The trustees also will rescind orders of "The Americans," intended for use by a Colma Intermediate teacher, and "The People Make the Nation," sought by the Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School's eighth grade staff.

The Jefferson Council of P-TA's, as well as the district's curriculum materials staff had urged further study of the texts, in independent actions.

Daly City Librarian Samuel Chandler started the local area concern over some of the content of the books by writing a column in The Post, an Amphlett publication.

He had criticized what he called unwarranted shifts in emphasis in "The Americans."

"The authors seem more interested in exploring how men and women of the past felt and reacted, and how today's youngsters feel towards them," Chandler wrote at the time.

"Studying history for the express purpose of coming to know yourself seems to give the authors license to interpret history as they please and to cut down on the importance of some characters and events while magnifying others," Chandler stated.

He told trustees this week he opposed some portions of the books because their quality was less than that available elsewhere.

"The books tend to kill off the memories of the nation's heroes," he said. "A nation without great men is in for a lot of trouble."

Chandler denied he was attempting to censure.

The state curriculum commission has directed that proposed social studies textbook be displayed at 50 libraries in the state. Daly City has one of the exhibits at its Westlake branch, where Chandler and other leaders of the educational community have been reviewing thm.

Citizens are supposed to read them and make their comments — good or bad — about the books, but the criticisms must be specific.

The deadline for comment was June 29. A hearing will be held July 8 and adoption by the state in July is expected.

The district need not get its books until September, 1972, however, school officials said.

Bob Sorkin, a resident, said the books include "real things that are here and are happening. It creates doubts and causes students to question and that is part of learning."

He added, "There is a lot of difference between training and education."

Sorkin said that the old books did not teach students to question.

"They have come to find that not everything they learned was right . . ."

He said he did not believe the new texts indoctrinate, but he said the books he was raised on did so.

Mrs. Arlene Pleich, mother of five, argued that the texts failed to instill pride, inspiration or incentive.

The books, she said, are "taking the will to fight away from us."

She chided what she said was a negativeness toward tradition.

"It's about time someone trained the eighth graders on what's good about this country.

Adult Bookstore Partner Tears Up Merchandise

Bumgardner Finds Door Lock Changed, Breaks In

By Bob Peterson

It appears the partnership of A&G Enterprises, San Bruno's adult bookstore, has dissolved.

This was emphasized by partner Glenn Bumgardner, 35, of 1211 Bellview, Burlingame, who early Monday morning broke into his store and ripped the materials beyond saleability.

Police said a patrolman at 3 a.m. Monday found the glass door of the store at 540 San Mateo Avenue broken. Inside, Bumgardner was tearing up the merchandise, police said.

Bumgardner, and his partner Arnold Haskin, 40, of 1780 Edna Way, Mountain View, both appeared in South San Francisco's Municipal Court yesterday on charges of selling obscene material.

Judge Walter Capaccioli postponed arraignment until Wednesday morning because San Francisco Attorney John McLaughlin, representing Haskin, had notified the court he could not be present.

McLaughlin, according to Haskin, is an attorney retained by the publishers of the alleged obscene books. McLaughlin was supposed to represent both defendants, but Bumgardner said he did not want McLaughlin to represent him.

Bumgardner told Judge Capaccioli that he wanted no more part of the bookstore and asked that the charges be dropped because he was quitting the business. Judge Capaccioli told him any decision to drop charges would have to come from the district attorney. Bumgardner also asked that he receive a court appointed attorney to represent him.

Later the partners walked out of the court building in different directions.

Haskin said he had changed the lock on the store's door, which was the reason Bumgardner's key wouldn't work.

Bumgardner said that when he realized the lock had been changed he took the bumper jack from his car and threw it through the window to gain entrance. He said that after four months of being out of work he had been offered a job as a body and fender man, his specialty.

San Bruno Approves Charge for Picnics

The City of San Bruno will start charging $20 each for weekend use of City Park picnic areas one and two and $25 for Beckner Shelter reservations.

City councilmen also approved Monday changes in the policies governing use of the swimming pool at the park.

The Park and Recreation Commission had approved the recommendations. Vice Chairman Pauline Sandkulla said the commission had spent many hours trying to work out the problems involved in reserving the picnic areas and in swimming pool admissions.

"Are you prepared for a barrage?" Councilwoman Margaret Koskowski asked Mike Kiely, the parks and recreation superintendent.

Kiely said he was experienced and prepared.

Reservation of City Park picnic areas may be made only by mostly-local groups.

The three areas would not be reserved on holidays.

Objecting to the policies was Mrs. Rose Urbach, of Euclid Avenue, who said she had been trying to get her groups to use San Bruno Park, rather than traveling long distances to use picnic facilities.

"We pay plenty of taxes in San Bruno," she added, "and should be able to use the park free."

Kiely said the fee was believed to be fair and was determined after a survey of fees charged by other cities. It costs the recreation department a certain expense to take reservations, keep track of them, and clean up afterward, he said.

Another objection was that Boy Scout and P-TA groups would be charged for park picnics.

Mrs. Sandkulla said the reservations charge would be made on weekends only. Councilman Neil Christal voted against the fee, in a 3-1 vote approving it.

Councilmen also approved new pool policies. As of Thursday, children who must wear diapers will be banned; children six years or under must be accompanied by an adult, both adults and children will be charged the regular admission rates.

No adult may have more tots under his supervision than can be controlled at one time and at one location.

Non-residents are being invited to use Crestmoor High swimming pool.

Millbrae Budget Nears Final Adoption

Millbrae's $3,528,459 city budget, allowing for cost-of-living pay increases for all employes, is expected to be adopted by the City Council July 7.

Councilmen reviewed the budget last week, listening to City Administrator Richard Watson's estimate of revenues and expenditures for 1971-72.

They also listened to spokesmen for city firemen and policemen, who asked for pay increases larger than the 4.1 per cent recommended by Watson. No other city employe groups made requests to the Council.

Watson said the budget is out of balance by approximately $95,000, and may lead to a tax rate increase of 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation, unless Councilmen find some means of balancing costs against expected income before the statewide August 30 deadline for adopting civic budgets.

He explained that the general fund, or operating budget, amounts to $1,412,433 of the total, and is an increase of about $60,000 over the 1970-71 cost plan.

Another $2,116,026 is scheduled for the special fund budget including such things as gasoline tax, hotel-motel tax, water and sanitation equipment, and bond redemption.

An apparent imbalance of some $950,000, he said, exists between expected total income of $2,659,431, and expected expenses of $3,528,459. Most of this is made up, he said, by transfers from various funds which have been built up over the years, to different accounts, from which the money can be spent.

Watson told Councilmen he had recommended an increase of only one person in total city staffing, with that employe to be added to the citys' recreation department.

At the same time, he said, he was suggesting a decrease of the work week of city firemen, from 60 hours to 58 hours per week. He said that, coupled with a pay raise and increased costs of fringe benefits, this amounted to a pay raise of more than 8 per cent for the firemen.

Spokesmen for the firemen challenged this. They said they preferred a 56 hour week and a 4.1 per cent pay raise, or a 7.5 per cent pay hike if the 58 hour week was demanded.

They said that the city is not maintaining their pay levels in the median position among neighboring cities, despite a pay plan devised to do so.

Firemen also said that City Administrator Watson had declared their negotiations at an "impasse" after meeting only two or three times, and asked for a chance to go back into talks with Watson.

Council members said they must protect the city's citizens against constantly increasing taxation, and that they could do so only by limiting expenditures. They voted 5-0 in favor of the 4.1 per cent pay increase, designed to cover only the growth in cost of living.

Watson said the package offered to firemen includes a guaranteed minimum of one hour's pay for every fire-call, and the option of taking an extra day's vacation or being paid, for holidays.

Policemen also requested higher pay rates, saying the recommended 4.1 per cent does not cover the cost of living increases, but "lags behind a whole year."

They asked that the city's system of determining "median" wage levels be modified, and Council members promised to review the operation before next year.

Pair Held in Stabbing

Two Pacificans, both 18, were arrested Monday in connection with the stabbing of 22-year-old John Rather after a teen-age graduation party early Sunday.

Thomas Wimmer, of 849 Lisa Court, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon and Michael Head, of 1496 Madera, was booked as an accessory, according to a Pacifica Police Department spokesman.

Both posted 500 bail each on Monday.

The stabbing occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James at 1295 Lerida Way. Their daughter was hostess for a graduation party, police said.

Rather and another youth were fist-fighting outside when Rather was stabbed in the lower side of the abdomen, police said.

The victim was taken to Mary's Help Hospital, where he had surgery, then was transferred Monday to Ft. Miley Hospital.

He was reported by Mary's Help Hospital to be in satisfactory condition.

Pacifica police refused to disclose details on how Wimmer and Head were involved in the argument — or how the altercation started.

Sign Wins Millbrae OK

Millbrae planners Monday approved a new sign for "Martinelli's Steak Pit" at El Camino Real and Center Street, but only after the owner agreed to take down enough existing signs so that the new one would not add up to a total sign area greater than that permitted by the city's law.

The question of a permit for the new, free-standing sign, had been held over from the last meeting because planners were doubtful about the need for a variance to allow the extra sign space.

By coincidence, the Crocker Citizens Bank submitted a similar application for a variance last night, causing planning commissioners to continue that application for two weeks while the owner reconsiders.

Crocker-Citizens applied for a variance to allow two free-standing signs on their bank lot at Broadway and Taylor, although only one would be permitted by normal rules.

One of the new signs would total 126 square feet, and identify the bank, while the second would total only 24 square feet and identify a parking lot entrance.

Although the total space is within normal limits, commissioners agreed that they could see no reason to "grant something to the bank that we can't grant to everyone."

The commission quickly approved a free-standing sign for Yorkshire Fish and Chips at 150 El Camino Real and also approved a two-story addition to Mrs. Elsa Kaufmann's home at 318 El Paseo.

An application for approval to resubdivide four lots in the Millbrae Villa tract to permit construction of a condominium apartment, was withdrawn until July 26, by the applicant.

Bail Denied Women Held for Murder

Bail was denied and next Tuesday set for further arraignment for two San Francisco women being held on charges of murder in the death of a Redwood City man last week.

Wanda June Studley, 23, and Georgia Anne Bohlen, 22, appeared before Municipal Court Judge Walter Capaccioli yesterday in South San Francisco.

San Francisco Attorney Nicholas Deriman, representing Miss Bohlen, sought an early determination for bail.

Deputy District Attorney Ed Pliska said that under the government code the defendants are not entitled to bail. "The complaint on its face is first degree murder," said Pliska.

The women are being held in connection with the death of Edgar Garrison, 47, a sales manager with a South San Francisco firm, who was found dead Friday morning in a South San Francisco hotel room. Cause of death has not been determined.

An additional charge of grand theft is made against the women because jewelry and cash had been taken from Garrison, police said.

School Budget OKd in S.S.F.

A tentative budget with a general fund figure of $14,503,060 has been approved by South San Francisco Unified School District trustees for filing with the County Superintendent of Schools.

The tentative budget is required to be filed with the county superintendent by July 1 under provisions of the state education code.

Other figures in the tentative 1971-72 budget included $496,267 for the bond building fund, $49,284 for the special reserve fund, $470,338 for the cafeteria account, $150,259 for the children's center fund and $1,905 for the state school building fund.

Cities Want Freeway 380 Size Reduced

San Bruno and Pacifica municipal representatives have agreed that the stretch of State Route 380 which will link Junipero Serra and Cabrillo freeways should be narrower than the designed eight lanes.

San Bruno Councilman Neil Christal announced this Monday at a meeting of the San Bruno Council.

Councilmen voted 4-0 to authorize acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen to ask the Division of Highways to consider a redesign.

Highway engineers previously had presented plans at a public hearing in San Bruno showing a freeway designed for eight lanes, plus a truck-climbing lane.

Christal had proposed a four-lane freeway, with a 46-foot median strip and a bicycle lane on one side. The median strip would be landscaped, but designed so it could hold some form of rapid transit should future traffic be too heavy for four lanes.

The median could be used for two additional freeway lanes, if needed, leaving 22 feet for the median Christal said, although six lanes would be the freeway's maximum width.

Christal said he met Monday at Nick's Rockaway with Pacifica Mayor Grace McCarthy, and Pacifica City Attorney John Sherman.

"I found we were not too far apart," he reported.

Councilman Tony Governale, who had been working with Christal, reported he had contacted all the local egislators and supervisors. He said they all believed the freeway is necessary for Pacifica, but that it could be scaled down.

The question had always been Pacifica's attitude.

"Then we found they had never asked for eight lanes," Governale said. Four lanes seemed adequate to them.

Mrs. Ellie Larson, local Sierra Club representative, expressed doubt that the Division of Highways would agree to fewer than eight lanes, since that width is an integral part of its freeway standard.

Governale said the council's action in asking for a four-lane freeway was based on a premise that the current state study on the environmental impact of Route 380 supports the viewpoint.

If the study was critical of the freeway, he said, the council would not want any kind of facility.

Meanwhile, a member of the Crestmoor Canyon Study Committee, said he would seek further road restriction through his committee, to lessen its impact.

18-Cent Rate Boost?

State Help Only Chance for LSSD to Avert Hike

The only chance Pacifica taxpayers have to avert an 18-cent increase in the Laguna Salada School District is legislation to boost state financial aid to education, LSSD Business Mgr. John Munt said today.

The 18-cent increase was contained in the preliminary 1971-72 budget adopted last Thursday after Supt. James Brien warned that they really did not know what their income would be yet, but had to act in order to comply with state regulations.

"It's just a paper budget," he commented.

Although many homeowners had complained of 30 per cent, and more, increases in their assessed valuations, Munt used a 2½ per cent overall figure for higher valuations, since that was the only figure he could obtain from the county. However, a sharply increased district valuation will not save the taxpayers since owing to peculiarities of the state of equalization laws, an increased valuation will only succeed in cutting down the state's share of education Pacifica and West San Bruno children.

"Our only hope is the Legislature," Munt declared.

Laguna Salada's current tax-rate totals $3.82. The new budget contemplates $4 even.

The State Legislature is supposed to reach its decision by today.

Munt said that it looked likely that Laguna Salada — cited statewide as the epitome of the poor (low tax base) school district—would get some kind of increased state aid.

Meanwhile, the Laguna Salada Education Assn. made its request for a 10 per cent pay increase, to a new scale of $7315 to $15,730 per year, for teachers. Non-teaching employes had asked for 5.5 per cent the previous year. All employes had received a two per cent increase the previous year, in their salary schedules. Trustees replied that the salaries eventually negotiated would depend strictly on what kind of income the district would come up with.

Residential Requirement Report Law Introduced

Pacifica's City Council Monday introduced a new law that would require each homeowner, or his agent, to obtain a Residential Requirement Report prior to selling his home.

A type of consumer protection legislation, it would require a copy of the Three-R report, as it is termed, be given to potential buyers.

The report would indicate the zoning, permits obtained and the condition of the home, generally. The report would cost the seller $5.

The measure also would make available an optional inspection by the building inspection department for a fee of $20.

"The people would know what they were getting," said Carl Kuhns, the assistant city manager, later.

The report would provide the potential buyer with a complete history of the home, he said.

Several members of the audience were against the proposed law. At least a dozen spoke in opposition.

Councilman Harland Minshew also voted against the ordinance.

He said the council was going beyond the intent of enabling legislation.

Fitzgerald Urges Counties to Have Control of State Taxes

Chairman James V. Fitzgerald of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors yesterday fired off letters to Assemblymen Dixon Arnett and Leo J. Ryan, taking them to task for supporting AB1057, the regional government bill.

Then he called a press conference to denounce state government in general and to propose a radical tax reform idea.

He proposed that counties be allowed to keep all income and sales taxes collected within their boundaries and that the state bil the counties for its services.

"We could amply solve our own problems and probably reduce our property tax by at least 50 per cent," he asserted.

The leiters sent to Ryan and Arnett scolding them for voting for AB1057 state, "I know it is too late but I feel this was a mistake."

The chairman said the bill, which would set up a regional agency with 40 elected officials plus staff, would increase property taxes in San Mateo County $100,000 "just to start." Fitzgerald said he favors instead a regional commission of city, county and state officials with authority in environmental matters, and not an added layer of government.

Fitzgerald declared that he has no ambitions or plans to run for any state or federal office, by way of showing that his criticism is not partisan or political.

"I intend to run for supervisor," he stated flatly.

Fitzgerald said he felt the Board of Supervisors did a good job in adopting a $123 million "austerity" budget for 1971-72 which he believes can be financed without increasing the tax rate.

"I was completely exhausted after two weeks on the budget," he related, "and then yesterday I read in the papers that the junior college district is going to increase its tax rate five cents. And I know that one city is going to raise its rate 12 cents. And then I read that Ryan and Arnett had voted for the regional government bill.

"I have been on this board a number of years and I have observed that the actions of the state, under the Brown administration and now under the Reagan administration, has been to develop a systematic, scientific method of shifting the cost of state government onto the county property taxpayer.

"I have never been critical of our legislators publicly before. But today I think the public really should be informed of what is happening.

"State tax reform to this point has been a farce. We must ask the state legislature and the governor for some truly meaningful tax reform, instead of just trying to balance the state budget by using the county property tax."

Fitzgerald said he intends, at the end of the legislative session, to review all actions of the county's legislators "and report to the public on what bills they supported that are going to cost the local taxpayers money."

"What is the state doing for us?" Fitzgerald asked. "Or maybe I should say, what are they doing to us?"

$123 Million OKd for County Spending

A $123,842,673 San Mateo County government spending program for 1971-72 was approved yesterday by the Board of Supervisors.

The budget total was reported to the board yesterday by Controller Edward J. McGuire Jr., who worked with members of his staff through the weekend following two weeks of budget hearings by the supervisors.

The total reflects a reduction of $2,235,410 from the final budget recommendation submitted by County Manager M. D. Tarshes, and compares with a $116,368,341 budget total for 1970-71.

The bulk of the money sliced from the budget during the two weeks of hearings was represented by the deletion of an $800,000 environmental contingency fund and more than $1 million in land acquisition proposa's.

Board members and Tarshes agreed that it should not be necessary to increase the basic county tax rate this year. McGuire, however, said he could not join in the prediction.

"But I don't think there will be very much of an increase, if at all," McGuire said.

McGuire explained that there are too many variables to be considered to make an accurate prediction. Year-end fund balances have not been computed and revenue estimates for 1971-72 have not been made. And the amount of increase in the county assessment roll will not be announced until later this week. All of these factors enter into computation of the tax rate, which will be set in August.

5-Year Accreditation for 3 S.S.F. Schools

Three South San Francisco Junior High Schools have received five-year terms of accreditation from the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC).

Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Clifton Boyack said five years is the maximum period WASC makes and accrediation. The accrediations expire June 30, 1976.

The schools are Alta Loma, Parkway and Southwood. Westborough Junior High School was not included in this particular accreditation study because it is a new school.

For accreditation, each school submits an application and a school report consisting of approximately 100 pages about the program and activities within the school.

Then a committee of educators selected by WASC spends three full days in the schools. The committee summarizes the conclusions and results of their visit into findings. These findings include commendations for good work and making recommendations as to what would be helpful to make the schools better. South San Francisco's three junior high schools received 345 recommendations and 309 commendations.

School principals are Elmo DaPrato at Alta Loma, Angelo Carmassi at Parkway and James Murphy at Southwood.

San Bruno Fireworks

San Bruno is the only North County city that will have fireworks display this year.

The display will be in a vacant area north of Sneath Lane, across from the Tanforan Park shopping center, Monday, July 5, starting at dusk.

Parking for the event co-sponsored by city clerk Carl Hultberg and Tanforan Park's Don Frate, will be at the shopping center lot.

Theft Suspect Still at Large

The man at whom a Half Moon Bay police officer fired three shots Monday morning is still at large today, while his companion was to be arraigned in Central District Municipal Court this morning for burglary and possession of stolen property.

The gunfire on Main Street at San Mateo Road came from the revolver of Officer Floyd Spriggs in an attempt to stop a fleeing Volkswagen believed to be the getaway car in a Dolores Street burglary.

One of the bullets hit the car, which was found abandoned 15 minutes later.

Arrested was Kenneth Blackwell, 30, of Pittsburg, who police later learned was on parole from the State Department of Corrections, according to Ceranski. A parole hold by that agency has been placed on Blackwell, who had been convicted of armed robbery in Oakland.

Water Systems in Peril

County Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett warned Wednesday that the county suffers from "a serious underdevelopment in environmental health."

"There are many tasks not being done," he told the Board of Supervisors speaking in justification of a request for a new position in the environmental health section of his department.

"There are too many water systems under too little control," Dr. Pickett declared, "and we are vulnerable."

"There is no current program to protect existing water systems from contamination."

He called public and school swimming pools, which are supposed to be inspected by his men, a "real threat," adding that his inspectors have got around to more than one-fourth of them.

Dr. Pickett said the proposed new man would deal with sewage disposal problems as well as water problems. He told of seeing sewage bubbling up out of a main at a school crossin and added, "I can't forget th sight."

County Health Engineer Henry Eich originally requested four new environmental health positions. That request was cut to two by Dr. Pickett, however, and finally reduced to one by County Manager M. D. Tarshes in his budget recommendatiin.

The board approved a $1,049,860 1971-72 budget for the department's health division. Among other budgets approved yesterday: Canyon Hospital, $1,417,572; Chope Community Hospital, $5,756,713; Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, $1,932,240.

Greenwood Wants New Shift Policy

Frank Greenwood, Jefferson Elementary School District superintendent, says he wants to assign or re-assign administrators without board of trustees approval of each action.

But, trustees have delayed a decision, on a motion by Albert Collett, who said he believed that such a move might take away some of the board's authority.

The proposed policy needs a bit of re-working Collett said.

Greenwood, supported by Board Chairman Edward Tomasello, said executive functions were involved and that the capabilities of principals, for instance, were best determined and evaluated by the superintendent and his associate.

He saw the board getting into executive areas, he said, "and there will be trouble."

Trustees currently review all decisions on personnel assignments. Greenwood's policy would make the trustees an appeal body only.

He would make the board aware of his selections, Greenwood said.

Trustees Bill Schumacher said he believed the state education code spelled out policy sufficiently.

Joe Lewkowitz described the board members as laymen, who hire an educator and pay him good wages to administer the district. But, he balked at reduction of board responsibility in personnel control.

Tomasello warned of possible political pressure being involved in administrative shifts.

He supported the superintendent's right to make the appointments without trustee approval.

Mrs. Beverly Forrester, a trustee-elect, said she hoped the board would not approve a new policy which might take away her authority, less than a week before she takes office.

She said there had been no occasion to study the proposal.

Greenwood reiterated that he needed the policy change and urged approval.

"If the board wants to reverse itself at a later date, that's its business," Greenwood said.

Trustee Dorothy Adams said she "would not like to build a wall" between the trustees and the superintendent.

She expressed concern over the delegation of authority by the board.

Chamber Outing

may be necessary for the board to use funds from the district's Community Services tax to cover the difference.

Trustee Francis Pearson said, if the board of trustees of the hospital don't give the J.C. district some kind of commitment on the future sale of the land, he would recommend putting the property up for bid to anyone who can afford it.

Since the matter of finance for the building is still unanswered, the trustees decided to assure the North County listeners by passing a resolution which stated that "appropriate allocations" from the Community Services tax will be used to complete the building.

The district can use up to five cents of that tax every fiscal year for Community Services projects. Since part of the Skyline building would be used by the community at certain times money from that tax could be used, it was pointed out by Ward.

Skyline College is the only college in the district to remain "uncompleted" in lacking a campus center building.

The campus center was originally planned for construction along with Skyline's other first phase buildings, but had to be deferred because inflation eroded funds then available. The structure is designed to include a library, social science classrooms, cafeteria and snack-bar.

All these facilities are now in temporary facilities.

The eating area is in a part of the area meant for an aeronautics laboratory. The library facility is in the custodial and receiving department. Social science classrooms are now scattered around campus, competing with English, language and other departments, for space.

ROBERT G. (Bob) Ellis, a Daly City printing shop owner, has been elected president of the Daly City-Colma Rotary Club for the 1971-72 term. Ellis, a veteran member of the club, was installed recently at ceremonies held at the Airport Marina Hotel. He will succeed Jack Erickson July 1.

The library will, for the first time, include various kinds of multi-media facilities, such as language labs.

The building will provide a home for the journalism department and prize-winning Skyline Press, student newspaper which are now operating out of quarters originally intended as a women's dressing room in the gym.

The building could contain student body offices, but this is not certain. It had originally been slated to include the student bookstore, but technicalities involved in obtaining state and federal grants for the structure have apparently ruled out this plan.

Since the structure will be financed through the district's community service tax, most of these facilities will be open to the general public. The gym and campus theater already are.

Campus administrators are conferring this week on final revision of the building's use.

Business Manager Matteo Fasanaro said construction might start by January, barring strikes, storms or disasters for completion by 1973.

The new building is looked to as a boon in relieving overcrowding and inadequate facilities at Skyline.

ly opposed the station construction and threatened to boycott any station located on the site.

"And I'll talk my friends into boycotting it too," Mrs. Shea warned.

Her husband, Joe Shea, pressed for tax figures on the property once it is developed into a gasoline station. A spokesman for the Shell Oil Company, applicants for the rezoning, said his company would invest some $250,000 in building the station. But he did not venture how much tax base the station would supply to the city.

Another resident noted that the recent advertisements placed by developers of Serramonte promised parks would be built in the growing community.

"Where are they? I've lived here over two years and no parks," the man told the council. "We're beginning to lose confidence in the city. And we've already lost confidence in the builder."

Councilman Frank Pacelli said, "I guarantee there will be parks built in Serramonte."

'Love Expressed' to Be Message

At the 10:55 a.m. July 4 morning worship hour of Westside Baptist Church, 390 Inverness Drive, Pacifica, the Rev. A. David Donnelly's topic will be "Love Expressed."

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Pastor Donnelly will sing "The Love of God."

That evening at 6 four youth fellowship groups will be meeting: Primary "Eager Beavers"; junior "Astronauts"; and junior high ans senior high CYF.

At the 7 p.m. family fellowship gospel hour, Pastor Donnelly reports on the annual meeting of the Baptist General Conference at St. Paul, Minn., and on the Christian Education Congress held preceding the Conference.

Pastor Donnelly will begin a new series of messages from the Epistle to the Colossian Church, speaking on the topic, "Why Study a Book?"

July 6 at 7:30 p.m., Boy's Brigade, an organization sponsored by the Westside Men's Brotherhood for boys 12-18 years of age, will meet in the church social hall.

George Bradley and Elmore Parker will direct the program.

Today at 7:30 p.m., prayer and Bible study hour will be at the church, and in the absence of Pastor Donnelly, Rich Doran will direct the study.

Westside Baptist Church is affiliated with the Baptist General Conference.

JACK PALMER has been called to the Westlake Community Baptist Church as the minister of music.

Palmer, his wife Joanne, and their three children will share in the musical ministry of the church.

Palmer has studied piano, organ, trombone, string bass, and voice.

He has been the director of music at the Open Bible Church, San Francisco; Glad Tidings Temple, San Francisco, and the Calvary Cross Church, Daly City. He has been a choral conductor for 18 years, and is a member of the San Francisco Chapter of Choral Conductors Guild and the Paul Weaver Chorale of the San Francisco Sacred Concert Society.

Mrs. Palmer has studied piano, violin, and voice. She has sung in sacred concerts for many churches throughout the Bay Area as well as numerous conventions.

The Palmers joined the staff June 27.

Colma Reading Funds Voted

The Colma P-TA in Daly City has contributed half of the cost for a set of the Sullivan Reading and Language Arts program, piloted at John F. Kennedy and Christopher Columbus schools this year.

Jefferson Elementary School District trusteese last week agreed to accept the gift and to pay the remaining $107.98.

JC Tax Rate Is Approved

A $20.8-million 1971-72 preliminary budget for San Mateo Junior College District, carrying a tax increase of 5 2-3 cents, was approved last week by the board of trustees.

The tentative tax boost, to an over-all total of 71.71 cents per $100 assessed valuation, is 1 1-3 cents below the increase ceiling of seven cents pledged to voters by the trustees for the coming fiscal year prior to the district's March election, at which an 11-cent heightening of the operational tax limit was approved.

And, as Matteo V. Fasanaro, assistant superintendent for business affairs, emphasized to the governing board at its special meeting at College of San Mateo, the 5 2-3-cent increase is based strictly on a normal expected gain in total assessed valuation. It does not take into account recent hikes made by the county assessor on some properties in the district.

If the assessor's action pushes the total valuation gain over the normal growth figure (5 per cent), the tax rate can be correspondingly further trimmed, Fasanaro said.

Chancellor Clifford G. Erickson pointed out that in order to make good on the trustees' pledge, more than $800,000 was cut from original budget requests by the various teaching divisions and administrative offices at the three district colleges, and the district office budget also was reduced from earlier figures.

It was also noted that the $1.5-million increase over the 1970-71 budget total represents almost entirely the setting aside of larger reserves ($378,104 of which is to be used toward construction of a campus center building of Skyline College), federally reimbursed special educational programs and "step" increases in employe salary schedules for longevity and experience.

The tentative tax rate breaks down as follows:

General purpose (operational), 55.13 cents; restricted override tax (a portion of the greater taxing capability approved by the voters in March), 6.13 cents; community service tax, 4.36 cents; bond interest and redemption, 6.09 cents.

Trustees scheduled their next meeting for Tuesday, beginning with a 5:30 p.m. tour of proposed sites for relocation of district offices to campus quarters at College of San Mateo, then continuing with regular business at 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the CSM administration building.

Nader Plans Eating Talk in Daly City

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will speak on "What Are We Really Eating?" at the Cow Palace Friday at 8 p.m.

Nader will share the podium with Dr. Wilfred E. Shute, a Toronto, Canada, cardiologist and author of the book "Vitamin 'E' for the Ailing and Healthy Heart."

The talks will be sponsored by the non-profit Western Humanities Foundation, supporter of consumer protection laws.

Nader first made headlines in 1965 with his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed," which charged the auto industry with producing unsafe vehicles.

Dr. Shute has researched Vitamin "E" deficiency in 30,000 heart patients at his Shute Foundation Hospitals in Toronto and London, England. He has been concerned with the high rate of mortality from heart disease among young executives and will survey preventive measures through proper nutrition and treatment.

He has stated that use of vitamin E has helped women with problems of menopause.

Nader and Dr. Shute will also speak next Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the San Jose Civic Auditorium.

The lectures are open to the public.

Prison Term for Mother

Suzanne Marie Tate, 23-year-old San Bruno housewife, was sentenced to state prison last week for the slaying of her infant daughter last December.

The sentence was imposed by Superior Judge Lyle R. Edson following Mrs. Tate's return from the state prison medical facility at Frontera where she underwent a 60-day period of evaluation.

It was the recommendation of facility officials and of the probation department that Mrs. Tate be imprisoned.

The woman was convicted of second degree murder March 17 in the fatal beating of her 26-day-old daughter.

Bandit Robs Restaurant

A gunman armed with a revolver held up the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant at 2815 Geneva Avenue, Daly City, last Sunday and fled after taking some $60 in cash.

St. Clair Cleared in ABC Matter

San Mateo County Supervisor Robert St. Clair said Wednesday that he has been notified by the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control that the charge he had a silent partner in operation of a liquor store is unfounded and has been dismissed.

A hearing was held before an ABC hearing officer, E. A. McDonald, last August following an investigation in which the ABC contended that George Sack, a wholesale liquor salesman, was a partner in operation of Bob St. Clair's Liquors, 3910 Twenty-fourth Street, San Francisco, in violation of state regulations.

St. Clair denied the allegation, stating that Sack was a part-owner of the building in which the store is located, that he sometimes worked as a clerk for St. Clair, but did not own any part of the business. The supervisor hinted at the time that the charge might be politically motivated.

The hearing officer cleared St. Clair of the charge. However, Edward J. Kirby, state director of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, rejected the decision and took the transcript of the hearing under review.

Peter T. Sexton, deputy director of the ABC in Sacramento, declined comment today on St. Clair's report that the charge had been dismissed.

Mild Quake

A mild earthquake rolled through North San Mateo County cities about 7 a.m. Saturday. There was no damage to property.

Police and fire departments received a scattering of phone calls from residents in Daly City, Pacifica, San Bruno and South San Francisco.

Intensity of the tremor was mild and location of the epicenter was not confirmed.

The shock was not strong enough to trigger the seismograph alarm at the University of California, a UC spokesman said.

BOWLING CLASS

Five week sessions of women's bowling lessons will be offered at Swanson's Westlake Bowl July 26—August 23, Daly City Recreation Director Charles Vincent has announced.

Safety Days in Daly City

Daly City mayor Bernard J. Lycett has declared the month of July "Zero In on Safety Month" and pledged the city's support in the campaign.

Lycett said the campaign provides a framework of motivation and promotion in which companies and government agencies can zero in on specific safety issues.

Access Sought by 4-H Club

A new Daly City 4-H Club unit wants to use a strip of land on the fringes of the John F. Kennedy School playground as an access route to proposed animal pens.

The location at the bottom of San Bruno Mountain north of the Gaudalupe Canyon expressway would be an ideal place for the pens, a 4-H spokesman said, but there is no way to get to the property except over school land.

Foremost-McKesson, developers of San Bruno Mountain, will donate the property to 4-H.

Jefferson Elementary School District Trustees directed Supt. Frank Greenwood to study the request.

Access would be required twice daily for feeding purposes, before and after school hours, and on weekends.

2 LSSD Assistant Principals

Two new assistant principals to serve the Ortega and Fairmont schools have been employed by the Laguna Salada School District. Basil Fleming for Ortega and Armon Siemsen to serve at Fairmont.

Armon Siemsen will go to Fairmont from Nipomo, where he has been serving as an upper grade teacher in the areas of math, science and physical education at the Dana Intermediate School.

Prior to this he was employed at the Palo Verde High School in Blythe and worked for two years at the Seoul Foreign School in Seoul, Korea.

A graduate of UCLA, he has also attended Wheaton College in Illinois, Cal State (L.A.), Yonsie University in Korea, Cal Poly and U.C. Santa Barbara.

His wife, Elana, and children, Kird 6, Byron 3, and Erin 2, will be moving to the coastside during the summer.

Basil Fleming, a graduate of Sacramento State, but who has also attended University of the Pacific, Cal. College of Marin, Stanislaus State, San Francisco State and Chico State, comes to the district from Dixon, where during the 1970-71 school year he had been a teacher of the educationally handicapped, principal of the adult school, and the current elementary Summer School, and has been in charge of migrant education.

He has been in education since 1960 in a variety of experiences, classroom teacher, assistant principal, principal, director of the San Joaquin County Outdoor Education School, and a teacher in special education.

He holds Life credentials in General Elementary Administration, as well as teaching. From 1952-59 he was an executive with the Boy Scouts of America.

Fleming holds a number of educational honors. In 1965 he was awarded a National Science Foundation Scholarship in astronomy and space science; he was included in the biography of "Outstanding Personalities of the West and Midwest" in 1968; and he was granted a graduate scholarship in 1965 to the University of the Pacific.

Motorcyclists Warned by S.S.F. Police

South San Francisco police have warned motorcyclists to stay out of graded undeveloped areas or face possible arrest and impounding of their bikes.

The warning came in the wake of repeated complaints from residents that dust is created when motorcycles break the crust established by contractors oiling and watering efforts.

Police said owners, developers and agents of the areas in question have authorized the department to take whatever action is necessary to remove motorcyclist trespassers.

An officer will be assigned to patrol the areas in a jeep, particularly during weekends, police said. Motorcyclists will receive an initial warning. They will be cited on second contact and repeated violations could result in arrest and impounding of the motorcycle.

2 Rescued on Coastside

Two men were rescued from a ledge on Devil's Slide on the San Mateo County coastside Saturday by a sheriff's deputy and a highway patrolman.

Deputy Tim McHenry said the men, Jimmy D. Miranda, 34, of 324 Wexford Avenue, South San Francisco, and John H. Callahan, 32, of 420 Milton Avenue, San Bruno, stopped at the south parking lot and got out of their car to view the ocean.

They informed the officer that Miranda slipped over the edge and slid to a ledge 75 feet below the parking area. Callahan went to his assistance and both men became stranded.

A passing motorist notified authorities at 3:50 p.m. McHenry and Highway Patrolman A. L. Toscanelli lowered a rope to the men and they were able to climb to safety, the deputy reported.

TALENT SHOW

A Junior talent show will be held July 15 at the War Memorial Community Center, in Daly City. Boys and girls from nine to 12 years of age may compete. Two will represent Daly City at Kids' Day July 27 at the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta.

MRS. CAROL Craven, baton instructor for the Daly City Recreation Department, gives last minute instructions to Laurie Raffo and Julianna Bagneschi as they polish routines. Instruction (to July 28) began last week at Daniel Webster and will run from July 1 to August 5 (each Thursday) at the Westlake Park Clubhouse.

INSTALLATION OF officers for the North Peninsula Branch of the American Association of University Women was held at Brentwood Lodge, South San Francisco. Newly installed president Mrs. Jose Camahort of Millbrae received her gavel from Mrs. Frank Seebode of Burlingame, out-going president. (above). Other installed officers: Mrs. Rene Cardinaux, first vice president, Mrs. Robert Craig, second vice president, Mrs. Dave Depew, recording secretary, Mrs. Edwin Anderson, corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Thanos, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Seebode, parliamentarian.

Millbrae Man Claims Bride in Tahoe City Ceremony

Corpus Christi Catholic Church in Tahoe City was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Carol Crippen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Crippen of Truckee, and Daniel McGrew Johndrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil J. Johndrow of Millbrae.

The 2 o'clock ceremony took place in a setting of yellow and white daisies and roses and ferns. The same color scheme was used at the Russell Fiddyment home in Timberland, Lake Tahoe, where the newly weds received felicitations.

As Carol and her father approached the altar, she was wearing a floor length princess gown of white cotton jacquard styled with long sleeves and a high neckline. A bow of the same fabric caught her veil which consisted of a shoulder-length layer of tulle over a floor length layer of tulle.

Carol carried yellow and white daisies, yellow roses, Talisman roses, blue cornflowers, baby's breath, and fern. For something old she wore a gold piece in her shoe given her by her grandmother, Mrs. E. K. Kraft. She borrowed a white cotton and lace handkerchief from her other grandmother, Mrs. H. B. Merritt.

When she departed on her wedding trip to Carmel, the new matron had changed to an Aztec print dress and coat in camel and rust. She and her husband will live in Burlingame.

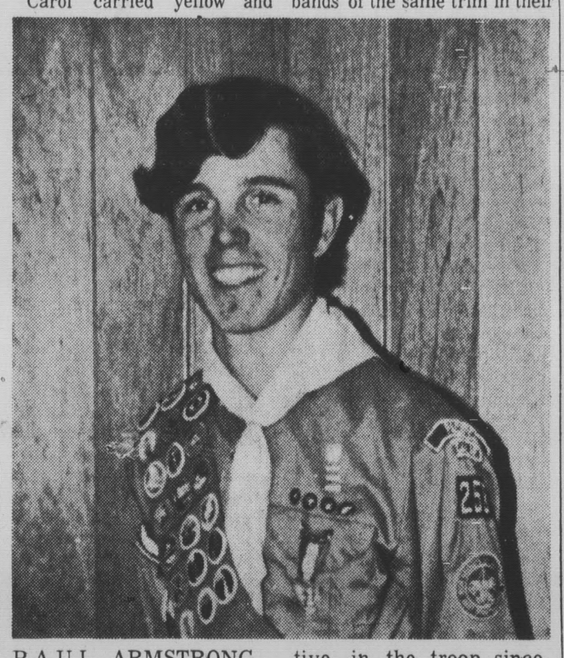
Janet Crippen was her sister's maid of honor and another sister, Kathleen Crippen, shared bridesmaids' duties with Janice Johndrow, sister of the bridegroom. All wore floor length gowns of lemon yellow pique with white lace and moss green flowered trim at the midriff. The attendants wore bands of the same trim in their hair and carried yellow and white daisies, yellow roses, and fern.

Mrs. Crippen chose for her daughter's wedding a geometric print cotton knit in off-white and beige. Mrs. Johndrow wore an off-white dress embroidered with red flowers.

Daniel Lenzo of Rochester, N.Y. was best man. Guests were seated by Daniel McGee, Robert Farrell, Joseph Johndrow, brother of the bridegroom, and James Crippen, brother of the bride.

Daniel also has a married sister, Mrs. Robert Fischer of Redding. He was graduated from Serra High School and the University of Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

Carol was graduated from Woodland High School and attended the University of California at Davis. She is a graduate of Heald's business college.



PAUL ARMSTRONG, 18-year-old Terra Nova graduate, received his Eagle Scout award from Pacifica's Troop 258 at a recent Court of Honor. He is the troop's assistant scoutmaster and receiver the honir from Scoutmaster William A. Lockwood. Armstrong, a member of the Order of the Arrow, has been active in the troop since 1966. Among those present at the Court of Honor were a great grandmother, Ruth I. Raphael of Daly City, grandmother Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, San Francisco, grandparents, Capt. and Mrs. Paul McBride of Cloverdale and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong of 312 Keith Avenue, Pacifica. (Post Photo)

'Open House' Program by Area K of C

There will be an "open house" program sponsored by a new Philippine-American Council of the Knights of Columbus up in the northern San Mateo County area.

The program is to be held in conjunction with the Knights of Columbus current membership recruitment program to enroll a class of candidates for the Admission Degree.

Qualified Catholic males in the Peninsula area who are interested in becoming members of the Knights of Columbus are invited to attend this program to learn more about the objectives or purposes of the Knights of Columbus.

Those interested and qualified Catholic males who desire applications may obtain them from Kenneth A. Cathey, 1293 Hillside Boulevard, No. 4, Daly City.

Those members of the Knights of Columbus who may wish to transfer into this new council may file their "transfer cards" with the above-named member.

Preserving Memories of That Trip

One of the nicest ways for children to preserve memories of picnic trips and other outings is to collect souvenirs to show others what they saw or which they believed were especially lovely or unique.

The gathering of such articles is fun and educational and it trains the eye of the young naturalist to be observant. But there are some drawbacks!

Everyone should be aware of the move to protect our environment and to assure that nature manages the outdoors to best advantage. If we are to be in step with the movement we must make sure our random souvenir hunting is legal and in the best interest of all.

Some parks now prohibit the collecting of fallen leaves, pretty pebbles and other such items, once fair game for any young picnicker. Wild flowers long have been off limits, but now a score of other considerations are necessary before junior can be assured that his collection is not selfishly denying others the opportunity to view the area as he observed it

As complicated as all this may seem to make the idea of gathering nature samples, don't despair! Your child can have fun, make a collection and do very little to disturb the terrain. In the meanwhile you will find the new means of collecting is neater, easier to store, occupies more time in the field and develops a sense of artistic appreciation. Quite a bargain, wouldn't, you say?

To begin with, the materials you will need are few and inexpensive. Cameras are out While children love to click the shutter, the whole picture-taking process is too intangible an art form for pre-schoolers and primary grade age children to comprehend. They need something they can see and touch, something they can re-do and improve immediately. Pencil and paper are adequate, paper and a small box of crayons are perfect for the undertaking.

While on your outing, you should plan to keep the materials in your purse or with your picnic items; they won't be lost. Whenever the children find something interesting enough to want you to come and see it, admire the object and produce the paper and crayons and suggest they make a "rubbing" of the object, so they may show that to others at a later time.

"Rubbings" are one of the easiest and most entertaining ways of copying things and children seem to be enthralled as the outlines and details of leaves and grasses appear on their paper as they rub over the overlaid paper with the pencil or crayon.

Uneven pieces of stone may be "copied" in the same way, and, if your paper is soft enough, a small rock can be completely packaged in it and then "rubbed." (When you get home the wrinkles may be removed from the paper by ironing it between two pieces of paper toweling.) "Rubbings" of several items can be done on the same paper to make a landscape or several varieties of leaves may be done on one piece of paper to make a melange.

The variety of applications for this is infinite and you and your children will have fun expanding on this idea by doing it at the seashore, in the park or on an extending camping trip. Whenever you are somewhere observing nature in all her many guises you will be able to conceive new applications for the rubbing craft.

Don't lose the pictures or throw them away as you might dusty leaves or broken seashells. Wait for a rainy day and you have another indoor project!

For a small investment you may purchase a scrapbook at any variety store. That and the "rubbings" you collect on warm days and a jar of paste will keep your children busy when it is too cold or wet to be outside.

For a nice touch, you might purchase, or allow the children to select, one postcard on each trip. The card should be one that bears the name of the area, as well as a picture of something relating to that spot.

Such a card can then be put in the scrapbook with the "rubbings" and serve as a title page illustration, if the book contains only one set of pictures, or to break "chapters" and show that the pictures in one section of the book were from one area and others came from later sojourns.

"Rubbings" can be strictly a home project and such things as coins, buttons, keys, scraps of heavy brocade cloth, reasonably flat pieces of costume jewelry and sometime the raised pictures on the covers of hard-bound books will reproduce via the rubbing method.

The amazing things about this craft is that even older children and parents become interested in the lovely results and soon everyone will be quietly engaged in making pictures using this process. Why not try it today?

Rubiales-Harrison Nuptials

Making their first home in Hayward are Gary Harrison and his bride, the former Phyllis Jean Rubiales, who were married at Holy Trinity Church. A reception followed at the South San Francisco Rod and Gun Club.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rubiales. When she walked to the altar with her father she was dressed in an ivory satin gown embroidered in seed pearls and lace appliques. Her attendants were similarly gowned in yellow costumes with white eyelet trinning.

Joyce K. Burke attended her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Charlene Santuccio, Cheri Goering and Nancy Hall. Denise Triantos served as flower girl and Frankie Burke carried the rings.

Neal P. Zoumboukos was best man for the bridegroom who is the son of Robert Beck. Ushers were Tom Williams, John Callejas, Carl Olson Jr. and Daryl Payne. Johnny Spadini was tray bearer.

Phyllis is an alumna of Westmoor High School and her husband is a graduate of Hayward High School. Richard Harrison and Beverly Gunsel are his brother and sister.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Yosemite National Park, Disneyland, Tijuana, and San Diego.

A Busy June for Seniors

Members of the Westlake Senior Citizens Club were busy in June.

Over 43 members boarded a bus and journeyed to Junipero Serra Park in San Bruno for a picnic, then a week later many attended the 13th San Mateo County Senior Citizens Forum Picnic at the San Mateo Fairgrounds.

Westlake Senior Citizens Club meets every Wednesday at the Westlake Community Baptist Church. Chorner of Elmwood and Southgate.

New Program

A new program for adults is available for those interested in Hawaiian and Polynesian dancing in South San Francisco.

Harriet Spalding will be the instructor for the eight week program, which will start July 6.

Auxiliary Seats Directors

Mrs. Arnold Loza has been installed as president of Crystal Springs Chapter of the Children's Home Society. Mrs. Loza, the mother of four children, ages 8 to 17, is a native of San Francisco. She attended the University of California at Berkeley and is a seven-year resident of Millbrae.

The new executive, who served as corresponding secretary and general chairman of the chapter's 1970 Duchess Tea, has just returned from a two-day statewide CHS workshop in Newport Beach. Estelle also resumes her dedicated activities as a board member of both the Day Camp for the Handicapped and the Palos Verdes School in San Bruno, for which she was named KABL's "Citizen of the Day" on January 29, 1971.

Mrs. Loza is chairman of the board of Frozen Food Associates and also serves on the boards of the P-TAs of Mills High School, Taylor Intermediate School, and Spring Valley School in Millbrae. Mr. and Mrs. Loza were 1969 recipients of the Honorary Service Award from the Spring Valley School.

In addition to Estelle's interest in golf and tennis, she is currently a member of the Burlingame Art Society, and her painting was recently represented in an Art Show at the Burlingame Recreation Center.

Installed with the new executive were Mesdames Calvin Pierce, Millbrae, first vice president; William Armanino, Burlingame, second vice president; Robert Belloni, Millbrae, recording secretary; Dewey Hinkley, Millbrae, corresponding secretary; William Haynes, San Mateo, treasurer, and Leland McGraw, Hillsborough, parliamentarian and historian.

Children's Home Society is the nation's largest voluntarily supported counseling and adoption service, assisting women with problem pregnancies, those considering adoption for their babies, children needing adoption, and couples wishing to adopt. Last year, CHS auxiliary members were responsible for raising more than $640.00, which represented 23 per cent of the Society's annual operating budget.

MRS. ARNOLD LOZA

The society is now actively seeking applications from couples with the flexibility to accept a child of minority or mixed racial background, the child with a medical problem, and the youngster past infancy.

Linda Ferraris Is Wed

The marriage of Linda Marie Ferraris and Walt Lembi recently took place at St. Dunstan Church in Millbrae. A reception followed at the Thunderbolt Hotel.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Ferraris of Millbrae and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lembi of Burlingame are the bridegroom's parents.

When the bride walked to the altar with her brother, Raymond Ferraris, she was wearing an Empire gown detailed with floral applique trimming. Her attendants were identically gowned in lavender taffeta peasant-style dresses.

Joanne Nobrega served as matron of honor and secondary attendants were Judi Scattini, Ginny Wallace, Francine Lembi and Lisa Lembi. Carrie Hayes was the flower girl.

The benedict was attended by Bill Sexton as best man. Ushers were John Herron, Marshall Thurber, Hank Mott, Raymond Ferraris, Jim Ferraris, Andy Barracco, Al Lavine, Dom Lembi, Leo Rippo and Anthony Dimaggio. Kem Ferraris served as altar boy and Brock Ferraris carried the rings.

Mills High School and the College of San Mateo are the bride's alma maters. Her husband, who also received his high school diploma at Mills, earned his bachelors and masters degrees at the University of Santa Clara.

After honeymooning in the Caribbean, the couple will live in San Mateo.

Newcomers Club Officer Corps

The Millbrae Newcomers Club has installed Blossom Baker as president for the coming year. She will officiate at her first meeting after luncheon Thursday at Joe's of Hillsdale in San Mateo.

Serving with Mrs. Baker are Norma Bynum, first vice president; June Zimmerman, second vice president; Betty Holtdorf, secretary; Dorothy Bezdek, treasurer; Doris Clark, historian and Gerry Connell, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Derlyn Gagnier is outgoing president.

Peninsula Residents Mark Birth of a Son

In honor of the recent birth of their son, James, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Pope of Millbrae dined at Maiden Lane's Iron Horse restaurant, and attended the opening performance of the Stuttgart Ballet at San Francisco's Opera House.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

A few weeks ago Sugar and Spice featured recipes using canned peaches and just this week I received another canned peach recipe from my niece in Los Angeles. It sounded so good and she recommended it so highly that I was happy to try it. It makes a large cake with a cream cheese filling topped with peaches and sour cream and is most delicious. This recipe was featured by the CandH Sugar Company.

You will note that some of the ingredients are divided, some going into the filling and the rest into the cake. Be sure to use a large pie plate as directed, the cake is easier to cut and serve from the pie plate with it's slanted sides.

PEACHES AND CREAM CAKE

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 cup granulated sugar
¼ cup sour cream
3 eggs, divided
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon peach syrup

TOPPING

1 can (29 ounces) cling peach slices
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Cream together the three-ounces cream cheese and one-third cup sugar. Add one egg and one-fourth teaspoon salt; mix well. Set aside.

Cream together the half cup butter with the remaining two-thirds cup cugar. Add the two remaining eggs and beat well. Combine the one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder and remaining half-teaspoon salt. Add to creamed mixture, mix well. Stir in the teaspoon vanilla and one tablespoon peach syrup.

Spread evenly on bottom and sides of 10-inch pie plate. Spoon in cheese mixture. Bake in 325-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from oven.

Drain the peaches. Arrangethe peach slices on top of cake. Blend the one cup sour cream with the two tablespoons brown sugar. Spoon over peaches.

Return to oven and bake for 5 minutes longer.

Chill before serving. Serves 8 to 10.

THE CREATOR of a recipe goes to a lot of trouble to pick a name that is attractive and descriptive, if possible. For example, "Peaches and Cream Cake" sounds good and also tells you something about the cake. This next recipe fits only half of the requirements in picking a name . . . it is descriptive of the manner of making the dish, but I have to admit, it isn't very attractive.

Don't let the name deter you, it's a very tasty casserole and looks good too. You really do just "dump" all the ingredients together to make it.

DUMP

1 pound ground beef
1 chopped onion
1 cup raw rice
2 cans tomato sauce
2 cups water
1 jar (2 oz.) stuffed green olives, juice and all
1 small can mushrooms or mushroom stems, juice and all

Brown the pound ground beef with the chopped onion. Dump in the one cup raw rice, two cans tomato sauce, two cups water, one jar stuffed green olives, juice and all, one can mushrooms, juice and all. Mix well.

Dump into a lightly greased casserole. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven for 1 hour, or until the rice is tender. It took about an hour and 10 minutes in my oven.

You've Got Meaty Treat

"Where's mine?"

His tail twitched with anticipation, clear blue Siamese eyes gazing hungrily at the marinating beef, then up at me in aristocratic entreaty. I continued to season the beef, reasoning that people eat people food and cats eat cat food. Anyone who has been owned by a cat should know better.

"You've got your meaty treat," I said, trying to assume an authoritarian air. "You've always liked meaty treat — it's the only cat food you'll eat. Now I've put a half a can in your dish. Eat that."

"No," he blinked, "Only marinated beef will do just now, thank you."

His tail twitched and swished as he contemplated a new approach. Perhaps if I left the kitchen for a moment — just a moment — he might creep up for a little taste. Finally he leaped from the counter up onto the refrigerator, settled down on his haunches and half closed his eyes. He tried to ignore me.

"All right then," he thought to no one in particular. "I guess I'll just have to starve myself to death. That'll teach him."

Long moments passed and I could stand it no more.

"Look, you crummy cat," I shouted. "If I give you this stuff, which incidentally set me back a dollar-nine a pound, there won't be anything for me and my guests. How would you like it if they showed up and all I could serve them is Swiss chard and bread? How would you like that? Huh?"

He closed his eyes. "I don't have to listen to this," he thought.

"Look," I pleaded, losing hope. "Maybe if I give you a little cheese — you've always liked cheese."

He opened his eyes to a skeptical squint. "No, thanks."

"Okay, okay, I give up," I cried, exasperated.

I took a bowl from the cupboard — he knew he had won — and placed one of the larger, more succulent chunks of beef in it. I placed it atop the refrigerator next to him and stood back, a beaten man.

He slowly stood up, stretched his back to a high arch, then turned his head very casually to the offering. He sniffed it, then tentatively tasted it. He bit off a little portion and chewed on it slowly, letting the flavor roll around his mouth before he swallowed.

"Well?," I asked.

He looked down at me, turning his head slowly from side to de.

"Too much garlic," he announced.

Then he bounded down and polished off his bowl of meaty treat.

ORANGE BEEFABOBS

1 pound lean beef stew meat, cut into 1½-inch cubes
¾ teaspoon bottled meat tenderizer
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 (15-ounce) can tomato sauce special
1 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced
2 teaspoons dry mustard
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 large orange, unpeeled, cut into eighths
1 red or geeen pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
Hot cooked rice

Sprinkle beef with tenderizer and pepper. Mix together tomato sauce special, orange juice, brown sugar, vegetable oil, garlic, mustard and ginger. Place ½ cup tomato mixture in small bowl with meat; toss to coat all pieces. Cover meat and refrigerate 2 hours. Thread beef, orange wedges and pepper pieces onto 4 skewers. Place skewers on grill over hot coals along with saucepan of remaining tomato sauce mixture. Cook kabobs about 12 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally and basting with sauce. Serve kabobs on bed of hot cooked rice and pass sauce. Makes 4 servings. (Tomato sauce special includes tomato chunks, chopped onions, green pepper, celery and seasonings).

The Registration Period Extended for 'Y' Classes

The San Mateo County YWCA is presenting a varied program for the entire family.

Disregarding city boundary lines, these classes are open to anyone interested in taking them.

Fees are reasonable and the registration date of June 21 has been extended for a short time.

Adults can take driver training for beginners, folk guitar, golf, home arts workshop, Polynesian dance, tennis I and II, and trimnastics.

Teenagers can take most adult classes, in addition to ballet-jazz and swimming.

Girls, six through 12 years old, can enter some adult classes, swimming, improvisation—character dancing, and the new and exciting summer adventure.

This is a camp designed for fun and learning.

Children's Dance and the Widget World Nursery are open to children three to six.

For more information, contact the San Mateo YWCA at 375 South Mayfair, Room 217, Westlake Shopping Center, Daly City.

Printing Press for DC Library

The Friends of the Daly City Library have announced they are giving the library a printing press.

Funds which enabled the purchase of this gift were obtained during the Friends' annual used book sale in May.

Every year the organization solicits and collects used books from the community, sells them at the Used Book Fair, and in turn, presents the library with special equipment.

Square Dancing Class Signups

The 49ers square dance group, sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department, has extended registration for their beginners' class to June 29.

The classes are being held in the all-purpose room of Foxridge School, 2525 Wexford Drive, in the Westborough area.

Mothers Honored

At a recent Court of Honor held in the Hope Lutheran Church, several Boy Scouts of Troop 129 presented corsages to their mothers.

Honored for their outstanding services to the Troop were Mrs. Barron, Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Feil, Mrs. Matsunaga, Mrs. Rodrigues and Mrs. Molver.

Promoted to the rank of Tenderfoot are Dale Kettner, Russell Rodrigues, and Frank Koerman. Mike Meschi and Dan Pitcher advanced to Second Class and First Class was earned by Marty Feil.

New officers of Troop 129 are Mare Brutschy, Librarian; Corey Quigley, Quartermaster; Don Chambers, Bugler; Bob Little, Scribe; and Scott Molver became Junior Assistant Scoutmaster.

Black and white neckerchiefs were presented to new members, Bob Bussane and Don Melius. Merit Badges Awards included: Home Repairs, Don Barron; Swimming, Corey Quigley, Don Busenbock; Citizen in Nation and Citizen in Community, Alvin Rodriges, Steve Matsunaga, Don Chambers; Art, Bob Little.

Winners of Soar Slides for their sales of Scout-a-Rama tickets are Bob Little, Corey Quigley, Johnny Law, Mike Meschi, Marty Feil and Mike Frleta. The top two salesman, Bob Little and Mike Meschi, also received Scout Cups.

The Tom Watt Supersalesman Steve Matsunaga, who sold $102 worth of merchandise, received a badminton set.

Since this was the last meeting before the summer, instructions were given to the parents by Scoutmaster Molver and Assistant Scoutmaster Feil for the preparation of their boys to summer camping. The Scouts are looking forward to an enjoyable week at Camp Cutter in August.

Sesame at Libraries

Sesame Street may be watched at the Daly City Library.

In co-operation with station KQED, television sets have been installed. They will be tuned to KQED so the pre-school crowd and their playmates in the kindergarten, first, second, and third grades can watch the program in the library and be instructed in following the activities in the program suggested.

According to Samuel Chandler, city librarian, parents are urged to take their children to the John D. Daly Library to watch Sesame Street at 9:30 a.m., to the Westlake Library at 4 p.m., and to the Bayshore Library at special times to be announced.

Class leaders are being trained to lead children in special games that are outlined by the leaders of the children's workshop in the Sesame Street magazine and in KQED's Fun Book.

DON'T TALK ABOUT drug-crazed GIs returning from Vietnam to Bill Lee, a mixologist at a popular bar in San Pablo, unless you want to see a guy go into orbit. The ex-Air Force sergeant frowns on those who paint obscene pictures of returning Vietnam vets as a bunch of hopheads.

If it isn't disgusting enough that these young men who fought in that far off country cannot land a decent job upon their return, Bill points to those even less fortunate Americans who left part of their bodies there.

The returning amputees are Bill's project. He has devoted the last four years, plus a considerable amount of personal currency, to providing entertainment to these guys.

Monday, over at Franklin Canyon Golf Course in Rodeo, the Third Annual Vietnam Amputees' Golf Tourney was held under Bill's chairmanship. Help came from many quarters, not the least of which were golf pros Pat Markovich (Franklin) and Kyle Burton (Olympic Club). To name all the duffers (there were 288 of them) who coughed up $20, time and prizes to make the tournament a success, would be an impossible task for this column — spacewise.

EACH YEAR the tourney gets bigger. The list of contributors and players grows. But the real winners are the Vietnam amputees, mostly young fellows who have lost arms, legs or both. One thing they haven't lost, as we found out in talks with them, is faith in making life go on as close to normal as possible. That alone takes guts. It was this attitude that made Bill and others undertake the project.

Some of the vets play in the tournament, but most look forward to field trips to Lake Tahoe where they can spend a couple of days skeet shooting, pheasant hunting, boating and taking in the dinner show at one of the casinos. These outings are paid for by proceeds from the tournament. What a morale booster these trips have been, the amputees tell us. And we believe them!

Everyone got their two-bits worth in Monday at Franklin. There was an Air Force flyover, skydiving, a bar-b-que and, of course, the spirit of the tournament itself at the tricky championship 18 hole course. Standing by watching the event was the team of PRIVATE CITIZENS (and we emphasize those two words) who made it all possible: Lee, Wes Ward, Paul Breslin, Pete Norgaard, Basil Sinko, Roy Erickson, Dale Clark, Frank Mello and Lee Smith.

This duffer, who passes for a writer from day to day, was invited to knock the pill around with the amputees, but frankly speaking, these great guys are way out of my class. Like a lot of ex-servicemen I gave my time to the government. These guys outshine me — they gave so much more.

NORTH COUNTY TAXPAYERS are up in arms. Accounts of how the County Board of Supervisors "held the line" on the new tax rate doesn't tell it like it is, they scream. Fact is, many NC homes were hit with a 20 per cent assessment increase. No matter how you figure it, property taxes went UP, UP and AWAY for those that got hit. So how do you figure the line was held???

SORRY TO LEARN of the death of D. C. police Lt. Charles (Bud) Terry's mother last Sunday. Services at Lasswells.

NORTH COUNTY YOUTH want the curfew hours extended to 11 p.m. instead of the current 10 p.m. and made uniform throughout the county. The way it is now kids returning home from a dance or teen get together around, say, 11 p.m. are asked by police for ID and where they are going.

Fact is, there is precious little for a youth to do during the week that merits being on the street later than the prescribed 10 p.m. curfew. If anything, we would ask police to better enforce the curfew laws. That, or scrap them altogether.

HOPEFULLY THAT POOL to be made at Westmoor High School will have free passes for senior citizens. And why not???

Stewart may know the North County, but he's a tenderfoot when it comes to the North Lake Tahoe area. Seems he went some 56 miles out of his way to reach Incline Village Golf Course from his Reno hotel. (Blame businessman Dino Donati for this tip).

WOULDN'T IT BE NICE if that beautiful rose garden tucked away behind the D.C. City Hall was in a spot where the public could admire it. Credit for the roses goes to city parks super August Conci. But we can't help wonder who picked the location. Move it and let the people enjoy the fragrant sight, we say.

'Job Market Has Shrunk to Nothing'

By CHRIS STAVE

If you'd like a PhD for a butler it could probably be arranged.

You can also have the past president of Stanford's Inter-Fraternity Council, Bob Tarun, to do your weeding. Tarun was graduated in June with an A.B. in History. But Tarun, like thousands of other graduates across the country, can't get a job.

He began applying in April, looking for construction work. After a while he concentrated on firms headed by Stanford Alums. He had no luck.

Last week he ran an ad in the Stanford Alumni Almanac. "1971 IFC President wants construction and-or major gardening work in Palo Alto, M.P. or Atherton Area. Will send resume. P.S. DESPERATE!"

The resume included his private prep schooling, his attendance at Harvard, his work as specialist clerk on the floor of the Midwest Stock Exchange, and his teaching last summer in the ghettos of Hong Kong. But no one was impressed. No alumni called.

"I'm not the only one," he said recently, sitting in a comfortable Palo Alto apartment which he must soon vacate. "There are about 1200 others, a lot of my graduating class. The job market has just shrunk to nothing.

"Too, it helps a lot if you have contacts. I was in Hong Kong last summer with the Volunteers in Asia program, teaching English in the ghettos. It was fun, but it didn't pay much. And it didn't help me develop any contacts."

There was a time when the IFC President at Stanford would never have to go begging, contacts or no. But times have changed.

"People associate fraternities with elite social groups," Tarun said, "but at Stanford, that's not true any more. Our rush chairman had hair down to here . . ." he held his hand waist-high ". . . which freaked out at least one fraternity red-hot from the East Coast."

Bob is getting used to the job squeeze. "I've sort of resigned myself to being desperate," he said. "It has its good aspects. I found out that I have a sense of humor, for instance. I'm also going to have to move out of here and onto campus. But even that has a silver lining. A lot of good-looking chicks go to Stanford in the summer."

Bob is facing another squeeze, too, like many grads nation-wide. He has an A.B. with distinction in history, and did well on the law boards, but he hasn't heard yet whether or not he will be accepted for law school.

"This is the first year that a lot of people haven't heard, and it's getting pretty late," he said. I think nationally there are about 100,000 applicants for 30,000 places. A lot of people getting out of grad school are having trouble getting jobs, though. I know one guy who got a doctorate in physics, couldn't find work, then turned around and entered law school."

Bob has found that being a Stanford grad doesn't carry the weight it once did. "There are too many smart people walking around who are willing to do anything," he said. "Now, when you're from Stanford, the doors swing open . . . and the hot air blows in."

"I did go to one construction firm headed by an alum. The secretary asked me if I had a union card. I said no. She asked if I went to Stanford. I said yes, and she said that would help. But I didn't get the job. It turned out that he had hired something like half the football team."

There was also a time when an Inter-Fraternity Council President would have sneered at gardening work. That time has passed.

"Students looking for jobs right now have no false pride at all," Tarun said. "I decided that I wanted to stay in California and work outdoors. I'm doing some gardening now, and I like it a lot. I don't know whether it's going to pay a living wage or not, but I like it."

Bob may forget about putting his IFC status on resumes and forms in the future. "Actually, in some cases, it's more of a liability than an aid. In many grad schools it could work against you, because there are often students on the admissions boards. As soon as they see the word "fraternity," they figure, ah, here's a redhot, and out you go.

"But it's getting to the point where I really don't care. I figure I'll get along one way or another."

It may be a struggle though. The same issue of Stanford Alumni Almanac that carried Bob's ad ran several others. "I have cashier and sales experience, but will do my best at practically anything," reads one.

Efficient, hard-working, eager. Any job," reads another. "Will do anything in LA area! Hard worker," said another. There are more applicants than there are jobs.

Meanwhile, Bob awaits some kind of word at P.O. Box 6537, Stanford, and will get along one way or another until then.

New College Trustee in a Unique Position

Tormey, Fontana Successor, First Contender in Generation to Unseat Incumbent

By JOHN HORGAN

James Tormey Jr. is in an unique position.

He is the first person in a generation to unseat an incumbent on the Board of Trustees of the San Mateo Junior College District.

And he will be taking his seat on the board at its first meeting in July.

After an election campaign which became heated and bitter towards its April 20 conclusion, Tormey, 36, would like to tread lightly and gently heal some of the wounds caused by that campaign.

The idea of being a maverick on the board does not appeal to him and he said this week that his aim is to work constructively with the four other board members to bring about substantial, positive policies for the district.

Tormey, himself the father of five young children, said he is encouraged by what he has seen so far as some of the recent meetings of the board.

He said one proposed move in particular, to have a management study of the district done by an outside firm, has great merit.

"Something like that ought to encourage the public," Tormey said in reference to Trustee Francis Pearson's study proposal. That kind of public confidence (or lack of it) was one of the San Mateo attorney's major selling points during his election battles.

"We must re-establish public confidence in this district and this board," he said. A plan like Pearson's, which has not been adopted yet by the board, fits in with Tormey's general contention that the people of San Mateo County are still not entirely sure that the district's leadership system contains no fat.

"I really can't say who's right or wrong (in the argument about where cuts ought to be made) right now," Tormey said. "I think we need an on-the-spot study. We have to know what's going on at the top. The ship has got to be tight at the top. If it's loose at the top then a kind of Parkinson's Law (diminishing returns) sets in."

About those cuts which the trustees promised during their own fight to have an 11-cent tax override passed in March, Tormey said he was unsure if cutting was taking place in the right places.

So far, the board has cut administrative costs by almost 15 per cent and more trimmings are being contemplated.

James Tormey Jr.

"Sometimes, we're too close to the situation," Tormey said. "It becomes a problem of not seeing the trees for the forest. The administration here has been developed so fast how can any one man be sure where cuts ought to be made."

"The key question is how much administration should there be."

"Problems in the district have multiplied over the last few years," he went on, "And it has become apparent that no one man can keep track of all its parts."

Tormey admitted that, as of now, he is probably not a popular figure among the remaining four board members.

He attacked the status quo with intensity during his campaign and things got extremely personal at one particular board meeting when Tormey and his former law partner, Board President Robert Tarver, exchanged verbal blasts at one another. Both men branded each other liars during the heat of the argument at the College of San Mateo that evening. Tormey, however, is hoping such differences can be submerged when he joins the board.

"I want to communicate with all of them (the board members)," Tormey offered. "I see my job as bringing the district to the public and vice versa."

To that end, Tormey said he'd like to see the board begin its 8:15 p.m. meetings on time from now on. Often—more often than not—the board doesn't begin the public part of its meetings until sometime nearer 9 p.m. Tormey would like to put an end to that practice because, he said, it does a disservice to the public which has gone to some trouble to attend the meetings.

He said he will also urge the board to set up one place for its meetings rather than jump from campus to campus every other week.

On the issue of a lack of representation for the North County (Tormey edged out Colma Trustee Elio Fontana by about 1,200 votes in April), Tormey said he is well aware that North County citizens feel disenfranchised by Fontana's loss.

"The North County districts were originally invited into the junior college district and we owe it to them to take care of them," he said.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the board, which was held at San Bruno's Skyline College, Tormey was introduced to the predominantly North County audience and he again pledged that he would not lose sight of the fact that the area has no representation.

He (and other board members) said the aim of the board is to treat the county as a whole, giving preference to no particular section.

'...An Action Manual for Lemon Owners'

By SAMUEL C. CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

It's here in the libraries and the bookstores: "What to Do With Your Bad Car, An Action Manual for Lemon Owners," by Ralph Nader and two associates.

Sam Chandler

Musing that if the dictionary wished to illustrate the word frustration, the authors state that it could not do better than describe the feelings of a new car buyer who has landed a lemon, "His wrath is exceeded only by his inability to redress his sizable grievance or to have practical recourse against the manufacturer and dealer in court."

There is no law and order for dealers and manufacturers who refuse to back up their product, Nader observes, therefore, thousands of new car owners are marketplace victims with neither rights nor remedies.

To help the new car buyer avoid the lemon experience, the authors offer a few timely suggestions and offer an appendix containing samples of letters, business addresses, order forms and warrantees that the buyer may use when seeking redress or as a substitute for those forms supplied by the dealer.

Part one contains such information as how to check the dealer's checklist before taking delivery of the car and what to do during your first days of driving the car.

Especially interesting is a section entitled "Picking up your new car." Here the authors tell buyers how to check brakes, tires, steering, latches, body damage, options and miscellaneous items.

Although test driving a new car and having it checked at a diagnostic clinic or lane is not a normal practice, Nader urges the buyer to demand the right to do. "If your dealer objects," he writes, "point out to him that the law allows the buyer a reasonable opportunity to inspect his prospective purchase before he is bound to accept it."

While hoards of people talk about correcting the system but do nothing constructive, Ralph Nader acts. His goal is to protect consumers. "We long ago perfected ways to give representation and help to special interests. Now we need to concentrate on how to help the nonspecial interests," he said.

Believing that the people of the United States suffer from a lack of independent sources of reliable information outside the government and industry, Nader has developed an organization to make independent studies and report on them.

Presently his organization is engaged in studies on the extent of nationwide pollution, the condition of nursing homes and the practices of food and drug producers. During 1971 two investgations have resulted in books "One life, one physician" and the above reviewed, "What to do with your bad car."

To maintain his objectivity, Nader and his staff remain completely independent of manufacturers and dealers: "The most important quality for this kind of work is to have no anxiety to be loved."

"Dollars have never been the prime thing . . . What we are doing is getting along on the sheer power of the idea; the idea of more justice for, and less exploitation of, the ordinary individual," he said.

Nader has been called "the activist who acts."

Of him, Time Magazine wrote, "Though at first Nader's charges often seemed extreme and wildly exaggerated, he has so often been right and so seldom off base that he has built a large fund of credibility even among his targets."

How Pollution Has Come to the Lovely Lake Tahoe Area

"Thy Kingdom Come" — a phrase reserved for the reverent or at least the understanding. To use it as an advertising slogan requires insensibility and perhaps a bit of meanness.

But King's Castle — the new super duper gambling spread on the North Shore of Lake Tahoe has actually used this exhortation on full sized billboards as a come on for business. King's Castle's reward should be a boycott until the offending words are removed.

This crummy and insulting assault on the spirit is just one example of the corruption and pollution of life in the twentieth century. The ideal laboratory for study of the rapacity of modern man is to be found at Lake Tahoe. Here, surrounded by towering mountains, lovely forests and the incredible lake one can watch startling energy and growth at work. Civilization is now arriving, and pristine and sylvan charm has been touched by the dark hand of human indifference. Today the evidence appears in fleeting and evanescent form, but with every passing day that evidence mounts and accumulates like a spreading cancer. Consider:

Another casino cleverly announces its proximity to Reno with another noxious billboard. On the eastern base of Mount Rose its sign promises a 17-mile trip. Now perhaps a jet plane can travel to the state border that way, and a healthy crow might also measure the journey as 17 miles. But the sign is for people in cars, and these must travel no less than 25 miles on the only convenient road.

In the past few years algae have found a new home on the north end of the lake. Their spread has been gradual and fitful, but the watchful see the change in color of the water and can predict muck and scum where once there was crystal clear water.

New building is governed by codes that protect the country from the worst of development practices. Local authorities do a reasonably good job of enforcement of standards and a building moratorium is being discussed. But just last week three projects were approved by the Tahoe Regional Planning Commission against the recommendations of its own must cut trees to make way for staff. One of these boggles the uninformed mind: the terrain is so fragile that the developer must spray the slopes with a solidifying agent because they won't revegetate.

The roads, once used for the meandering travel of a few, are now crowded, and the internal combustion engine is ubiquitous. These bring speed, danger, collisions, smoke, gas stations, parking problems, smog, and man.

The forests, still beautiful, are under attack. Car exhaust and salt brine from winter highway salting are doing in the trees near the roadside. Insects, chemicals and a needle disease new to the area endanger entire forests. Finally, there is no more efficient way to eliminate trees than to burn or cut them down. With people, fire danger mounts, and people more people.

There are clear windy days but no really clear calm days anymore on the south shore. It seems as though the algae and smog are in a race to see which will first dominate Tahoe.

Examining our workshop we see the savage at work, and must sense that what is going on is more than pollution. Exploitation is a better word. In the grasping, thoughtless surge of growth we see the bad side of man at work. We have seen man exploiting religion, the rights of others, the truth, the waters, the forests, the skies. Most of all, like the wild men of earlier days men are exploiting one another in many instances for solely selfish purposes. It unfortunately seems that Twentieth Century America has plenty of men but few to match her mountains.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Post:

We saw again tonight on television that Pete McCloskey is still on his high horse. My husband and I voted for him to our sorrow. Anyone who would fight our own President, who is trying to do his duty in trying to stop a war that Democrats started, should be ashamed. I am sure Shirley Temple Black would have been more faithful to our country even though I did not vote for her. Everywhere I go some Democrat has something to say about how the Republicans keep the war going. They don't stop to think who started the war. As for the jobless people, I myself would rather miss a few meals than see our boys go to another country to fight. I think President Nixon feels the same. If the Democrats don't have one thing to gripe about they will find something else so I believe in my country and my President. It would be a nice place to live if the people in the United States would stand behind their leader.

The Giants' Trades . . .

BASEBALL MISCELLANY: Local sports scribes long ago invented another sport indigenous to this area, called Knock the Giants' Trades. As you faithful readers know, we try whenever possible, to neutralize these trades tirades. So here we go again.

There is a kid playing for the Giants who is at the moment hitting over .400 and playing creditable defense when he gets the opportunity. His name is Fran Healy, and he must be the best third string catcher in baseball, unless he is already the best second string catcher in baseball. And the Giants got him from Kansas City for pitcher Bob Garibaldi, who is still in the minors.

And then there is this left handed pitcher called John Cumberland, who has been effective in long, middle and short relief, and who just recently stepped into an emergency starting situation and blanked the heavy hitting Chicago Cubs. The Giants got him from the Yankees for Mike McCormick, who is now out of baseball, recovering from back surgery.

Yet there are still some sports scribes hanging around local pubs talking about the Bill White trade . . .

There are many who are worrying about the state of the Giant offense with Willie McCovey out tending to his battered knees, but they forget that the defense may be damaged at least as much as the offense and not just in one spot, but in two positions. Mays doesn't come close to McCovey at first base defensively, and no matter what talent plays center field, and the Giants no doubt have plenty of talent to offer out there, he isn't going to be a Willie Mays . . .

Speaking of McCovey's knee, as we write this it is uncertain as to whether or not he is to have an operation, and also uncertain as to how long he'll be out if he should need surgery. We say this. If surgery is indicated and it is determined that he'll be out for the season, or virtually so, and if it is also determined that he can do no further damage to the knee by batting, then don't operate and keep Willie around as a pinch-hitter, a commodity of which the Giants have been dreadfully short this year. Better McCovey occasionally then no Willie at all . . .

Some fans have made the comment that the Giants are not running as much as they were in early season — as if it is by choice.

There are two reasons why the Giants aren't running as much as they were. One is that they are not hitting as well as they were earlier in the season. They are thus putting fewer men on base. And a team needs baserunners if it is going to run. The other reason is also tied into the hitting slump.

When base runners become relatively rare, a manager tends to hoard them, i.e., try to keep them on base. The best way to do this is by not allowing them to take chances. The best way to break up a big inning, or even a moderate inning, is by getting runners thrown out by way of their own momentum. When a team is hitting, it is a different matter. A manager can take a chance on breaking up an inning, because he knows that there is a good chance that he'll have more than one crack at a big inning. And when a team is going good, they always seem to be able to take that extra base and not break up the inning, and, well, you know the old story. The rich get richer . . .

This is not to denigrate Willie Mays' amazing accomplishments this year, but as usual, Hank Aaron, one of the greatest little publicized players who ever lived, is being virtually ignored by the national press. And yet, Aarons, who isn't all that much younger than Mays, is presenting a real threat to Babe Ruth's career home-run record, and the last time we looked, he had, despite a horrible start, edged ahead of Mays in batting average, was seven homers ahead of him, and 20 RBI's in the lead . . .

In that recent San Diego game in which Juan Marichal fell off the mound, twisted his ankle slightly, and complained about the infirmity of the new mound which had had to be re-built hurriedly after a display for the press of the Candlestick football facility, Marichal carried a two hitter into the ninth inning in what was just about his best pitched game of the year until he weakened suddenly in that ninth.

And what do we mean by that long-winded, complex sentenced? If that's what it takes to make Marichal like he was until 1970, screw that mound up, groundskeepers, screw it up . . .

Our pet Giant peeve is still in operation. At a recent Saturday game against the Padres, McCovey was suddenly removed from the lineup early in the game without public address explanation. People in the stand were worried about big Willie. If it weren't for those pests who bring radios to the game and blare them (our second pet peeve), nobody in the stand would have known that —A at least at that point time — there was nothing seriously wrong with McCovey. His knee had stiffened and he was taking a rest.

Our point is this: why should people listening to free radio be better informed thas people who paid those inflated prices for parking, seats, food, etc. (Don't get excited, Horace, we know it's the 49ers' fault)? Would it shatter any laws, be a crime against nature to allow PA man Jeff Carter to make brief explanatory announcements in such cases? If the radio guys get the information we're sure it's available to Carter . . .

Last week, in our popular Semi-Annual Baseball Quiz, we mentioned that Leo Durocher had played a lot of shortstop for the Yankees in 1929. What we didn't mention was Leo's defensive genius. Herb Pennock, the great Yankee southpaw who saw them all from Honus Wagner until Pennock died in 1948, once called Durocher the best fielding shortstop he ever saw, especially in clutch situations. Pennock said that there was nobody he'd rather have the ball hit to in a tough situation on that great Yankee team, where it would have been safe to hit a ball at anybody, than Durocher.

"He'd never let you down," said Pennock . . .

NOSTALGIA: Thumbing through a 1950 edition of a now extinct magazine called "Complete Baseball," we came upon a feature entitled, Baseball Stars of Tomorrow — The 1950 Rookie All-Star team."

And here it is: Pitchers, Whitey Ford, Bob Hooper; catcher John Pramesa; first base, Walt Dropo; second base, Roy Hartsfield; shortstop, Chico Carrasquel; third base, Al Rosen; Outfield, Irv Noren, Sam Jethroe, Luke Easter.

As you can see, this roster contains some real household names. Stars of tomorrow? Some of them didn't even make it to that night. Ford will probably make the Hall of Fame, Noren, Dropo and Carrasquel became good, solid major leaguers, Rosen became a star. But, oh, that fleeting glory. Hartsfield lasted three years, Pramesa and Jethroe four. Easter had star quality but a bad knee cut his big league career short (six years), and Hooper lasted only as long as Easter.

But then perhaps Easter and Hooper were victims of the magazine itself, jinxed, in a far lesser way, as today's stars often are after they've appeared on the cover of Sports Illustrated.

Easter, you see, named as a star outfielder of tomorrow by "Complete Baseball," that year played only 13 games in the outfield. He was a first baseman. And Hooper, who was named by the magazine as perhaps the most promising because of his extreme youth — indeed he was the youngest of the all-star team — a mere age 20, was in reality 28.

Same magazine also contains a story entitled, "Shortstop of the Future." It is about Danny O'Connell, rookie Pirate shortstop. This is especially interesting, because the shortstop of the future played only one more season for the Pirates, and that was at third base, not shortstop. In fact, he never again played short on a regular basis for the remainder of his 10 year major league career.

O'Connell, you may remember, was the Giant second baseman when they moved to San Francisco in 1958.

But let us be fair with "Complete Baseball," even though it lasted shorter than most of its players of tomorrow. It does finally connect with one prediction in its story, "Watch Jim Hearn in '51." Hearn, a Giant, in 1951 had his best year in baseball, compiling a 17-9 record, and having a big share in leading the Giants to their miracle finish pennant. He went on to a 1-0 record in the World Series, along with an ERA of 1.04.

SUDDEN — AND LAST — THOUGHT: Starting pitchers who are wild, even if they generally complete their games, can still wear out a bull pen, because their wildness tends to get them into trouble several times during a game, in which case someone must almost always be kept warmed up. Relievers sometimes leave their game down in the bull pen. So this is why a manager will sometimes pull out a control-troubled pitcher seemingly sooner than you think he is justified in doing so. His bull pen has been warmed to the point where it's either now or never. Another inning of warming up and nobody in the bull pen may have anything left, and the manager will be stranded with a wild, tired starter.

More About Textbook

not what's wrong with it," Chandler said.

Mrs. Pleich is a frequent speaker at board of trustee meetings.

In mentioning the fact, she said, "I learned how to protest without being taught."

Mrs. Pleich also said that teachers lead the interpretation of the book and that she personally knows of teachers who are not impartial.

Chairman Ed Tomasello said the basic issue is whether or not a book teaches what must be taught. He said the concern seemed primarily over The Americans, which he said believed to be negative in approach.

He said a more positive vain would have been better.

Trustee Joe Kewkowitz said he didn't like the book at all.

"All families have tradition," he said. "Tradition means a lot."

Sorkin countered with, "A lot of the problems we're having in the country have been perpertrated by some of our traditions."

He said he valued tradition "very much." But, he said, "Where tradition lets the people down and causes problems, it's wrong. We tend to forget that the country was born out of dissent."

"I don't think the books belong in the schools," Lewkowitz said. He said he saw no expressions of good — just bad.

"It's about time someone trained the eighth graders on what's good about this country, not what's wrong with it," Chandler said.

Not all of the persons appearing at this week's board meeting opposed the books.

Carol Costa, who heads the Benjamin Franklin school's social studies department, had praise for the People text, although she said she believed she might have difficulty using The Americans, because it called for other materials which she might not have access to.

She said she believed the values in the People book to be balanced.

The students are encouraged to think and to make up their own minds on topics in one segment of the text, she said.

"If we are going to train people to think, then we must expose them to all viewpoints," Mrs. Costa said.

The failure to cover certain traditional areas of U.S. history and its treatment of the drug culture were criticized by citizens.

The textbook, which is proposed for adoption by the state for use in eighth grade social studies classes, is praised as an exciting, workable instrument by Mrs. Costa.

The People Make a Nation text was chosen, she said, by the teachers at Franklin, because of those books available, it was the text which most closely tied in with the new social studies curriculum, and also because it is believed to be the book best suited to the needs and interests of the students.

Mrs. Costa has pointed out that the San Mateo County Curriculum Guide has established "Political and Economic Systems" and "Urban Environment" as the main areas of study to be taught at the eighth grade level.

She said that with the new division of subject matter, some historical periods or movements—such as the Western Movement—are eliminated in the eighth grade, because they already have been covered in the fifth grade—or will again be covered in the eleventh grade.

One unit of the textbook, People, deals with race, poverty and youth.

"The primary orientation of the text is to present readings which give all sides of a historical event and then ask students to make evaluations and judgments based on the facts which have been presented as well as upon their own value systems," said Mrs. Costa.

It was decided that at Franklin the physical aspects of drug use would be taught by the science department, while the social studies department would cover the sociological aspects of drug use.

"Therefore, the inclusion of the drug culture in the People Make a Nation is well-suited to the needs of the students and the curriculum as it has been established at this level," she said.

The readings in a section titled, "The Problem of Youth" offers a variety of viewpoints, giving equal space to a drug advocate, an ex-addict, a peace corps worker and several other adults and young people.

"Since drugs are part of the world-scene today, and since the state has mandated that drug education be taught at the eighth grade level, teachers must deal with this subject in a realistic way to help students make individual decisions which are based on all the available facts and information," she added.

The whole orientation of the text, she said, is how American institutions have grown and changed.

"The purpose of the book is to teach young people how to work within the system to change those areas of American life which they feel need changing," she said.

Mrs. Costa said she believes the book from that point of view is a "positive statement of the effectiveness of the American political and economic system in meeting the needs of its citizens."

To omit the section, she said, would be to fail to make American history "relevant to the problems of today and make the lessons learned in earlier chapters mere mental exercises rather than knowledge which can be applied now and in the future to form a better and stronger nation of individuals able to see the various sides of any issue and make informed decisions."

Mrs. Jerry Galindo. Jr., president of the Jefferson Council of P-TA which suggested a joint parent and teacher review of textbooks, quoted from two articles of the section on drug culture.

She said she disagreed with Mrs. Costa that these two stories provided balanced viewpoints.

She said that in her mind a positive last line of one story did not offset what she believed to be a seemingly pro-drug use commentary in both.

Each member of the board will select a parent to meet with the four members of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association textbook committee.

Tomasello appointed Chandler chairman.

Prison Lunch Served at Reform Conference

By DAVID THOMSON

A day-long prison reform conference in Redwood City Saturday heightened its impact with a sample prison lunch.

A typical serving consisted of two presumably all-meat hot dogs, a dab of sauerkraut, a piece of buttered white bread and a two-inch cube of chocolate cake.

Ex-con Lew Sawyer, who spent over nine years in California's state prison, described the meal as comparable to prison food but said that the bread wouldn't come buttered in jail.

Sawyer, now working for the Glide Urban Center in San Francisco, earlier told some 75 persons gathered at the Messiah Lutheran Church that their humanity was the greatest potential resource for prison reform and should be taken to people in jail.

"Your humanity," he said, "is prisoners' soul food."

The 40-year-old former inmate of Soledad also said that things people take for granted, such as having a home and inviting people over to visit, are the difference between living death inside prison and life outside.

Former Beverly Hills and San Carlos Police Chief Joseph Kimble and Assemblyman Leon Ralph joined Sawyer as featured speakers at the conference's morning session.

Kimble, whose manner of dress contributed to his dismissal from the Beverly Hills post last year, appeared in a brightly striped, open collared shirt and custom-tailored slacks.

"This is not an official uniform," he quipped.

The 22-year veteran of law enforcement indicted the nature of American society as the chief cause of crime.

"I operate on the principle that America is a violent society, that America is a criminal society, and that America is a racist society," he said, "and I am dedicated to changing all three."

Kimble argued that effective prison reform must come at the county level, contending that by the time people reach the state system their chances for remaining human are gone.

But he said that counties too often "build sandcastles that go little beyond the warehousing of people."

"Over 10,000 people a year are dumped at the gates of the San Mateo County jail," he charged.

Kimble later praised the county jail here for what he called "a number of innovative programs," but insisted that there is indifference from the community at large as to the value of these.

"The county has not really done its part to support these programs," he said.

Kimble added that he favored program of state aid to assist the counties in improving the prison system.

Assemblyman Ralph, whose district includes the Watts area of Los Angeles, said that the prospects for state assistance, however, are bleak.

He insisted that the root problem is that too many people are vengeance oriented when vengeance should have no part in justice.

To illustrate his point, he noted that convicted felons who have served their time and presumably have paid their debts to society are, nevertheless, denied the right to vote.

Ralph insisted that even if reform proposals could be shepharded through the legislature, which he described as unlikely, they still would be killed off by the governor.

"I'm suggesting that the man hasn't joined the 20th century," he said.

After lunch, the conference broke into small groups to develop proposals for each of seven subjects: capital punishment, rehabilitation, legal aid, the plight of the black and poor prisoner, judicial and legislative reform, administrative reform, and probation and parole.

Shortly before 4 o'clock, the conference reconvened to consider more than 50 resolutions that its work groups had developed.

They included proposals that capital punishment be abolished; that the grievances of Soledad prisoners be supported (including a demand for a civilian panel to review disciplinary committee decisions there); that President Nixon be encouraged to refund the CRLA (California Rural Legal Assistance) program; that Ruchell Magee be allowed to act as his own attorney; and that there be legal alternatives, such as community treatment centers, to arrest and confinement.

The conference was sponsored by the peninsula-based Transcultural Youth Movement headed by the Reverend Harold Varner of the host church.

Stressing the urgent need for prison reform, Reverend Varner said:

"The prison system is untouched by human hands; it's as pure as the Virgin Mary."

St. Clair Raps Gov. Reagan

A "phony" label was hung on Governor Reagan Wednesday by San Mateo County Supervisor Robert St. Clair.

It happened as the Board of Supervisors was approving a $735,000 budget for legal aid to indigents in the 1971-72 fiscal year.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said that the state is committed to paying 10 per cent of the cost but not enough was budgeted by the state in 1970-71 to meet the obligation. He predicted the same for 1971-72 and estimated that the state subvention will not exceed $30,000.

Controller Edward J. McGuire said he received notice from the state to submit no more bills for reimbursement because the fund was depleted.

Bowman Gets Brunans a Win

San Bruno split a pair of one-run decisions with South San Francisco on Sunday at Orange Park in Joe DiMaggio league baseball.

South City took the first game, 6-5, But San Bruno, behind the pitching of Ken Bowman, came back to squeeze out a win in the second, 5-4.

Bicycling Is Now Popular

By ARLEN GREGORIO
State Senator

Bicycling is far and away the most popular participatory recreation activity in America and is rapidly increasing in importance as a form of mass transportation as well.

A survey by the American Athletic Institute indicates that over 67 million Americans bicycled for business or pleasure in 1969 (an estimated 75 million in 1970), compared with 43 million boaters, 43 million campers, 24 million roller skaters, 18 million softball players, 11 million golfers and 4 million skiers.

Yet the purse strings on public funds only recently have begun to loosen for this most public of all forms of recreation. One reason is that bicyclists traditionally have used city streets, county roads and state highways for their pastime. But with the upward trend in both motoring and bicycling, such use is becoming increasingly hazardous.

I have authored a measure which will help remedy this emerging problem. Senate Bill 1100 would allow the expenditure of highway funds for construction and maintenance of separate bicycle facilities along streets and highways.

The basic principle here is in accordance with the State constitutional restriction on the use of gas tax money. Separating bicycles and autos does serve a highway purpose, as stipulated in the Constitution, when such separation increases the safety and traffic capacity of a highway. The automobile driver and the bicycle rider both benefit by each not having to worry about colliding with the other.

This is no more radical than the same legal logic which now allows gas tax money to be spent on railroad grade separations which benefit both automobile and train traffic, pedestrian over or undercrossings, and even stock trails along rural roads.

If it makes sense to provide separate routes for the safety of cars and cattle, then the millions of Californians who ride bicycles deserve no less consideration.

Catholic Loop Bowlers Sought

The Catholic Inter-Parish Bowling League is inviting parishes in San Francisco and Northern San Mateo County to enter a team in the Winter League, starting in September.

A minimum of five men are needed for each team and any parish may enter two teams if necessary to accommodate all volunteers.

Teams will bowl at the Westlake Bowl in Daly City, day and time to be determined later.

THE DALY CITY Recreation Department and the Westlake International Soccer Club's Summer Youth Soccer Program is continuing through July 30 on Tuesday from 4:30 to 8 p.m. and Fridays from 6 to 8 p.m. at Westlake School Tuesdays and Colma Intermediate School Fridays. Play is open to all boys 6-14 years of age. They will be taught rules and skills of soccer by a certified California Soccer Football Association coach. Program Instructors are Herb Bethge or Michel Martin.

Equestrian Center Is Being Planned

An equestrian center between San Bruno and Pacifica — with horse trails extending through both communities— is being planned.

The horseback riding center is master-planned for the extreme northern section of the San Francisco watershed area near Skyline Boulevard and the Portola Highlands subdivision. The particular site is currently destined to be cut off from the rest of the watershed by the future extension of State Rte. 380.

When the 380 interchange is built, it is planned to include provisions for a horse crossing so that a riding trail may go down into the Crestmoor Canyon area. A trail already exists along Skyline linking this center to San Francisco on the north, through the Pacific Heights and the Pacifica Highlands subdivisions. Division of Highways engineers are working at re-establishing the trail which once ran all the way to Woodside but which was cut by Interstate 280.

The entire project is still in a somewhat nebulous stage.

It came to light when the San Francisco Water Dept. had a recreation masterplan drawn up for its watershed area. Arthur Fry, Water Dept. manager, said that his office is currently interested in persons or groups who may have some definite proposals for development under a lease agreement.

Weight Training Program Planned in South S.F.

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department is offering a weight training program for boys in the junior and senior high schools and adult men.

This fee program will have 15 hours of individualized instruction beginning July 1. The program consists of seven weeks of instruction, two times per week, for one hour.

Any boy between the ages of 13 and 18 can register for either an afternoon or evening program.

Men, over the age of 18, may sign up for an evening session scheduled from 6 to 7 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday.

Salt & Pepper Downs Tigers in DC League

The M. R. Salt & Peppers romped to a 13-4 win over the Daly City Toyota Tigers in the Women's Slo-Pitch Softball League which plays each Sunday afternoon at Westlake Park.

Loretta Anderson drove in three runs for the Salt & Peppers while Verna Jackson and Gloria Stamps each had three hits in four trips at bat.

Linda Torrez and Kathy Honrado each tripled for the Daly City Tigers and Ann Camilleri hit a double and Doris Sneler went "three for three" and drove in three runs.

Ed Cordero Chevrolet added another victory to their record — 21-8 over the Pee Wee Fleas. The Fleas enjoyed an early lead.

Fern Way had five hits and Linda Perez and Shirley Sherwin each tripled for Cordero Chevrolet. Jill Basowski slammed a double while Lynn Mibach connected for a triple. The Pee Wee Fleas were led by May Anderson who hit a double and two singles followed by Betty Sylvia who also connected with a double and two singles.

Boating Booth by D.C. Flotilla

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary is participating in National Safe Boating week, June 2—July 5, and Flotilla 18 of Daly City will have a display at South San Francisco's Oyster Point Marina.

The flotilla's booth will be operated from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 4.

Courtesy examiners also will be on call to inspect boats of all types and to answer questions about boating safety regulations, according to Stanley W. Albrechtsen of Flotilla 18.

Dog Tag Fee Hike Possible

San Mateo County's dog owners face the prospect of a 50 per cent increase in license fees for their pets to help finance a higher level of service by the Peninsula Humane Society.

This was indicated last week by the Board of Supervisors in adding $45,000 to the proposed budget of the Society which provides centralized animal control and shelter services for the county and its cities.

A. Russell Turver, superintendent of the Humane Society, contended before the board that $21,291 more than the $431,250 budget recommended by County Manager M. D. Tarshes for 1971-72 is needed for the Humane Society to continue to provide even the present level of service.

He requested that amount, plus another $35,807 for a total of $57,098 to provide also two additional officers whose principal tasks would be to patrol the county for stray dogs and to write citations on owners who permit their dogs to run at large.

The society is planning a new program of issuing citations which would be processed through the municipal courts and would entail a $25 forfeitable bail or a court appearance by owners.

Tarshes indicated that any increase in the budget should be offset by income. An increase in the present dog license fees of $4 for males and females, $2 for spayed females and $2 for late payment to $6, $4 and $4 respectively would bring in $96,000 a year, he estimated.

The county manager noted that a 25 per cent increase would provide $53,000 a year, but probably only $42,500 in the coming fiscal year since dog licenses are issued on an annual basis.

He said that any license fee increase would have to be approved also by the councils of the various cities. The last fee increase was three years ago, Turver stated.

Citing the plight of the Humane Society finances, Turver said that ithas been necessary to cut back the training program of humane officers. He reported in noting complaints by residents of poor service, that San Mateo County has one officer assigned to a beat comprising 80,000 residents, while the average for the Bay Area is one for 40,000 residents. South San Francisco, which is financing an additional officer for that community from city funds, and Palo Alto, which has its own Humane Society.

Fred Cooper, an attorney appearing on behalf of the Veterinarian Association of San Mateo County, had some more bad news for the board.

He reported that association policy of providing free emergency treatment for the Humane Society may soon become a service of the past because of a new state law which provides that the county is responsible for paying for emergency service, which, he estimates will amount to $20,000 to $25,000 a year.

Supervisors Gain Mileage

County supervosors Wednesday took special action to give themselves the same deal on travel mileage that is available to other county employes.

Starting July 1, a supervisor may elect to be paid 10 cents a mile for use of his own car on county business, or may take a flat $40 a month plus eight cents a mile.

The motion was made by Supervisor William M. Werder, the only board member presently driving a county car.

An employe who drives fewer than 2,000 miles a month, and supervisors usually drive much less than that, is better off electing the $40 plus plan. At present, board members have no choice other than the 10-cent plan.

Mother Jailed on Sex Charge

A 31 year old Post Office employe and mother of five was arrested by San Bruno police detectives on prostitution charges June 22.

Taken into custody at a local motel by officers was Gloria Kouloulias, who works in the air mail division at San Francisco International Airport, according to the authorities. Her address was listed by police as 57 Escanyo Drive, South San Francisco. She is divorced.

Voucher Plan Is Backed

The controversial "voucher plan" bill, AB-150 authored by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-South San Francisco, which would give parents, children, and taxpayers more say in how the education dollar is spent, reached its halfway point in the state Legislature Thursday. The Assembly voted 47-23 to pass the bill to the Senate.

In calling for support of the bill before the full Assembly, Ryan said the experimenta program might present the educational establishment with the push necessary to bring about needed changes.

"Today our children are receiving less education and it's costing us more," Ryan told the Assembly. "There are tens of thousands of kids coming out of the schools who won't be able to make it because their education is inadequate.

"This pilot program will give the parents, the children, and the taxpayers a chance to have some control over the way their children are educated, and the quality of education they receive," Ryan added.

Under the voucher plan parents would be given vouchers equal to the amount spent per pupil by their school district in the preceding year. The parents could then turn the vouchers in to any school in that district, public or private, to finance their child's education.

"The object is to try the system out in four selected districts in the state, under strict controls and evaluation set by the Office of Economic Opportunity that is supplying the funds for the program, and to see if it presents a meaningful alternative to the present educational system," Ryan said.

Ryan rebutted the contention by some of his colleagues that the pilot program which is set to run for seven years with federal funding, was an attempt to destroy the public schools and make the voucher plan a state-wide system.

"The program will be under the control of a local board set up under the plan, and the program could be scrapped by any future legislature, so there are numerous safeguards if it proves unworkable or harmful to education," Ryan said.

The bill won strong endorsement from Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, the Democratic Caucus Leader. Cory said the bill would have a "therapeutic" effect on the educational structure in the state.

TRP Presents Certificates

Area high school students and adults received Certificates of Completion in Appliance Repair and Refrigeration Service from San Mateo County Office of Education's Regional Training Program (RTP) according to Lee M. Baxter, RTP Director.

RTP was initiated by the San Mateo County Board of Education to provide increased training opportunities.

Those receiving Certificates of Completion: Ray Lucchesi, Westmoor High School, and Harold Wrigley, El Camino High School.

Adults receiving Certificates of Completion:

San Bruno — Gary Alan Agan, Ernest L. Kingberg, and Burley C. Stiltner; Pacifica — John Barowitz and Geoge Lipsie, Jr.; Millbrae — Abraham Cecil and Earl P. Smith.

Caller Says He'd Kill an Officer

Police in two North County cities were threatened by an anonymous phone caller Thursday who casually declared he would "kill a cop" before the night was over.

The first phone call was received by South San Francisco police at 8:30 p.m.

"Just wanted to let you know I'm going to kill a police officer tonight," the young male voice warned.

A few minutes later Brisbane police were recipients of a similar call—with one exception.

This time the caller said he would kill a "Brisbane police officer."

No Tax Rate Boost Seen for County

County officials predicted Friday that the basic county tax rate will not be increased this year.

If they are right, it will be the first time since 1967 that the rate, which stands now at $2.1292 for each $100 of assessed valuation, has not gone up.

Chairman James V. Fitzgerald of the Board of Supervisors made a flat assertion that there is not going to be an increase in the tax rate as the board concluded two weeks of public hearings on the 1971-72 budget.

"Hopefully," Fitzgerald added, "there will actually be a decrease."

Other members of the board and County Manager M. D. Tarshes indicated agreement with the chairman's assessment of the situation.

During the hearings the board reduced Tarshes' $126-million budget recommendation by approximately $2.5 million, leaving the final total about $7 million over the 1970-71 spending program. The favorable tax picture occurs, despite the increase, in this way:

Most of the increase is represented by mandatory welfare requirements, only a fraction of which is paid for out of local property tax funds. Most of the money slashed from the budget, on the other hand, was for purposes paid for 100 per cent by county money. The latter category included elimination of an $800,000 "environmental contingency fund" and deletion of about $1.3 million in land acquisition proposals.

Among other actions taken Friday, the board added $95,000 to meet the recent telephone rate increases granted by the PUC, appropriated $22,500 as the county share of a feasibility study of improvements in the Emerald Lake district west of Redwood City, added $368,246 to the General Assistance budget to accommodate a recent Supreme Court decision that welfare aid cannot be denied just because a person is employable, and reduced the general contingencies fund by $250,000.

Fitzgerald's statement about the tax rate was in response to a speech made by William H. Royer, a former Redwood City mayor and an announced candidate against Supervisor William M. Werder in next year's election. Royer had issued press releases earlier stating that he would call for the board to cut the budget total down to the amount spent in the preceding year.

When he appeared before the supervisors at the close of the budget session, however, Royer did not say that. He commended the board for its work on the budget and acknowledged that it is an impossible situation to get down to last year's figure. He urged the supervisors to look for economies during the year in the hope of avoiding further increases in 1972-73.

Flight Tours Slated by Bay Airlines

July Fourth will be national "Flightseeing" day for American Airlines, the latest U.S. air transport company to adopt the get-acquainted flight technique to bring in more business during an economic slump.

Frank M. Burg, district sales manager for American, said the airline will offer six 30-minute "flightseeing" trips aboard Boeing 707 Astroliners, from San Francisco International Airport, on Independence Day.

Similar flights will be offered at nine other major airports served by American, on the same holiday.

Special tickets are being made available for the hourly flights, which begin at 12:15 noon.

At almost the same time, American, Trans-World, and United Air Lines announced a plan to cut total flights by 29 per cent next winter, and 14 per cent next summer due to the continued downtrend in business.

Awaiting approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board, the route cuts include service between San Francisco and New York, San Francisco and Chicago, Los Angeles and New York, and Los Angeles and Washington-Baltimore.

Meanwhile, the airlines are individually conducting such get-acquainted efforts as American's "Flightseeing" day, hoping to get more people into the airliner seats, even for short jaunts.

County Aid to Agencies Exceeds Recommendations

A recommended appropriation of $207,784 in the 1971-72 county budget for supportive payments to other agencies was increased to $253,549 by the Board f Supervisors Thursday.

The increase includes funds for creation of a County Arts Commission.

The board also added funds for the County Service League, restored a cut to the County Safety Council and provided funds for the start of a County Environmental Committee.

The various agencies and the appropriations:

Arts Commission, $29,765—This is the first year of budgeting for the County Arts Commission, established by the supervisors during the past year to advise them in all aspects of the arts. The amount covers salaries for a director of arts and a stenographer-clerk.

San Mateo County Housing Authority, $8,000—The purpose of this appropriation is to assist the Authority in the development of a housing inventory for low-income residents. It will continue a program started last year.

Union Cemetery, $100—The county has budgeted this amount for many years to assist with the upkeep of the old Union Cemetery on Woodside Road in Redwood City. The city and the state also make contributions. Supervisor Robert St. Clair voted against the appropriation, asserting that there is no justification for supporting only one of the many cemeteries in the county.

County Service League, $21,000—The board added $5000 to the amount recommended by County Manage M.D. Tarshes following receipt of a letter from the League seeking funds for extended chaplain services for the various county jail facilities—particularly for transportation.

County Safety Council, $15,000—The amount of $5000 cut from last year's budget was restored to avoid crippling of planned holiday safety programs.

County Environmental Committee, $6000—These funds are provided to help organization of this committee, advocated by Supervisor Jean Fassler.

County Historical Association, $27,674—This amount is $3854 over the current budget, but the same as contributed by the county in 1969-71. It was recommended by Tarshes to help the association to continue to pay reasonably competitive salaries and meeting increasing costs. Supervisor Robert St. Clair complained that the association's museum's location at College of San Mateo is in a poor location for optimum access by the public. He indicated he will push for moving it to the proposed environmental center site at Coyote Point when that area is developed into a regional park.

County ROR program $70,000,—This amount is funded under contract to the County Bar Association to finance the Release on Own Recognizance (without bail) program for indigents who otherwise would have to remain in jail to await trial.

Local Agency Formation Commission, $70,352—This amount was proposed by the commission and must be approved by the board in accordance with state law.

Volunteer Bureau, $5658—Funds are used for recruiting and organizing volunteers seeking to conrtibute their services to various social welfare, medical and related programs financed by the county.

Probation and Restitution Ordered in Grand Theft Trial

Louvern Donald Michaelson, convicted of conspiracy and attempted grand theft in the operation of rigged gambling games at a San Carlos bar, was placed on four years probation Friday and ordered to maker restitution of $10,000 to the victim.

Sentence was imposed by Superior Judge Gerald E. Ragan in whose court a jury convicted Michael, 48, a San Bruno carpet layer and card dealer, June 4.

Two other men accused of the same charges, Daniel Doherty, 38, owner of the Orchid Room bar, and John F. Sylvester, 28, a bartender, are scheduled to go to trial July 19.

In his report on Michaelson, Probation Officer G. F. Hilliard recommended a period of time in county jail as a condition of probation.

However, Judge Ragan announced in court following a conference in his chambers with Deputy District Attorney William Larsen and defense attorney Robert Tennant that a "better course of action" would be to require restitution to the gambling game victim, Richard L. Bradley, 34-year-old Santa Rosa junk and metal yard operator.

Although it was charged in the trial that Bradley was bilked of $10,000 on a rigged electronic bowling machine and loaded dice, the actual amount lost at the bar total about $70,000, according to his statement to the probation officer.

Judge Ragan noted that the restitution ordered must be paid within the four-year probation period and has no bearing on a civil suit Bradley has filed seeking $70,000 plus damages.

Hilliard's probation report indicates that repayment may take some doing. He reports that Michaelson says he has been unable to work as a carpet layer because his knees "gave out" and that he has been unemployed as a card dealer since 1969.

Judge Ragan declined to impose a recommendation of the report that the defendant be ordered not to participate in games of chance or skill for money because card dealing is one of Michaelson's vocations.

"But you don't cheat people," the judge warned, "I hope you've learned that."

LSSD Wants to Develop Bare Land

The Laguna Salada School District trustees have applied for HUD grant for a $66,000 project to develop bare land at four school sites.

They want to continue work started at Westview and Sharp Park, and begin work at Pacific Manor and Cabrillo.

The project is being worked out jointly by the city and the school district.

The cost would be born as follows: School district, $17,000; city, $15,000; and Washington, $31,000.

The trustees also voted to back the Ourdoor Education program wholeheartedly, and decided to send — if possible — every 6th grader in the district this coming year to the woods for an entire week of outdoor education. The only hitch is that the district would not be able to help pay for the program; each family would be charged $32. Privte groups, like P-TAs, may help.

Assistant Superintendent Marvin Morganti asked the board to expand the Miller-Unruh reading program, from 11 to 13 teachers.

The board voted to apply for the entire amount to which Laguna Salada is eligible — 35. Although the state pays for most of the program, the district would still have to pay a portion.

Trustees approved of a stepped-up program for articulation between elementary and high school teachers. The teachers would have conferences this summer to insure continuity in social sciences, English and math.

Instant Replay

South San Francisco residents hooked up to the city's cable television system will get an "instant replay" of the June 21 city council meeting tonight and Thursday.

The un-edited video-taped film will be aired on Channel 3 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. on both Wednesday and Thursday, according to Dave DaPrato, program director of Western TV Cable.

Editor, The Post:

President Nixon is absolutely right! Publishing of information regarding the history of our involvement in the Vietnam war, or in elections, or anything else certainly endangers security:

The security of Johnson,
the security of Nixon,
the security of the Pentagon, and the security of many public officials entrusted with governing our lives who lie to us, and use us, the Amreican people, to gain their own ends. It endangers their job security.

One of the most important freedoms of America is a Free Press. Otherwise, how else can we form judgments? Up to this point, except for the mess in Vietnam, I had some faith in the President, but now I am wondering if anyone who fears truth as he seems to must maybe have much more to hide.

It is high time our country belonged to us — and not those in high offices who hold back the truth, who stage things deliberately so we will be misled — who make a chess game out of the lives of the American people — who, in plain and simple English, trick us!

This country, with its freedoms, is the hope of the world. We are not Russia, we are not China, we are not Israel, we are not a single-minded people. We are different, we are diversified, we are all the countries of the world, in one. It is obvious that current diplomatic negotiations may not be able to be published, and that current military moves may not be able to be divulged. But each man must stand on his past history, and know that, as president, it will be revealed. Johnson was pressured into that war, I am sure. Regardless, "Republican" or "Democrat" blame is not the issue. The issue is simply — which is more important — telling the American people only what the government wants them to know, or telling the American people the complete truth, and letting them judge.

RUTH H. HARRIS,
San Bruno.

Editor, The Post:

The N.Y. Times account of LBJ's duplicity has shocked some of us. We are again indignantly clamoring for the government to "level" with the people and for politicians to tell us "like it is." But these whinings are pathetic indeed! Sen. Goldwater leveled with us in 1964 and waged an honest campaign. He was cast off as a madman, while LBJ was exalted as a great leader.

The latest episode reaffirms what the old and wise Greeks knew a long time ago: people get the leaders they deserve.

M. DJORDJEVICH,

McCloskey, Halley to Discuss Current Issues at GOP Forum

Former Republican State Chairman James W. Halley of San Mateo will discuss current issues with Congressman Paul McCloskey July 9 in a forum at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel, San Francisco.

The event, sponsored by the Bay Area Republican Alliance, is significant for Republicans and Bay Area citizens, said James M. Knowles, alliance chairman.

Because of limited facilities, all tickets must be reserved by writing to the alliance at 564 Market Street, San Francisco. The forum will begin at 4 p.m.

McCloskey made what he called his "first campaign appearance in New Hampshire" during the weekend and nearly declared himself to be a candidate to oppose President Nixon for the party's 1972 nomination.

"I've gradually been moving toward the feeling that I would like to be president of the United States," he told a group of students at St. Paul's in Concord.

The former Marine and Korea veteran whose opposition to Nixon centers on the administration's Vietnam policy, said he plans to campaign nearly continuously starting in January in anticipation of the March primary.

He said he would be in the state every two to three weeks from now until the end of the year.

He spoke on a number of topics, including the Pentagon Papers, the disclosure of which "may end the war sooner."

McCloskey noted that he had had a copy of the report and had wanted to try to get Congress to demand that it be made public before it was published in parts by several newspapers.

The Board of Directors of the California Republican Assembly has voted to censure McCloskey for "nonperformance of his duty" in failing to fly the American Flag in front of his U.S. Congressional Field Office in San Mateo.

A resolution voted unanimously by the board's quarterly meeting in Burlingame during the weekend stated that on three separate occasions personal requests by telegram had been made of McCloskey to attend or have one of his staff attend flag-raising ceremonies at the Congressional field office. It said that on each occasion neither the Congressman nor his staff attended.

Retirement Dinner Set for Paxton

Tickets are still available for this evening's retirement dinner for Half Moon Bay City Administrator Fred L. Paxton.

The dinner will be at the IDES hall, 745 Main Street, Half Moon Bay, with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at city hall, by contacting Police Chief Fred Ceranski or Treasurer Claudia Snyder.

Paxton, 65, has been city administrator since 1960, shortly after the city was incorporated.

His retirement is effective after tomorrow, but he has said he will stay on with the city as an administrative consultant until his replacement is named. The city council hasn't indicated when this might be. The city has received 105 applications for the job.

A large crowd is expected tomorrow night, Ceranski said. More than 200 reservations have been made so far, he noted.

Paxton is one of the best-known public officials on the Coastside. He came to the Coastside 28 years ago and was a partner in the construction contracting firm of Wallace and Paxton before the city's incorporation in late 1959. He was active in the incorporation campaign.

He was named the first city clerk and eventually became administrator, building inspector, license collector, zoning administrator and civil defense director. With help from Mrs. Snyder, Paxton was virtually a one-man city government from 1960 to 1969, when the staff was expanded.

Fire Damages Bruno House

Three young boys playing with fireworks were blamed by the San Bruno Fire Department Monday for starting a fire in garage-room of the Les Boyer home at 611 Walnut Avenue.

Walls, rugs and furniture in the room were damaged in the 4:41 p.m. fire.

Extra $60,000 Is Denied EOC for Summer Jobs Program

A request by the Economic Opportunity Commission for an additional $60,000 for youth job programs this summer was denied, at least for the time being, by the Board of Supervisors Wednesday.

More than 120 young people crowded into the board's hearing room to support the request.

Ed Becks, EOC executive director, called the proposal "realistic" based on economic conditions and the difficulties young people are having finding summer jobs.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said he did not recommend the $60,000 appropriation because of the board's instructions to present as austere a budget as possible.

"I would have to say, though," he told the board, "that there is certainly justification this year, because of the economic situation, to increase the amount."

The proposed budget contains $100,630 for county-wide youth employment projects.

Louis Morrill, 123 Linden Avenue, San Bruno, told the board, "It would be better to keep them active than going around busting windows and school buildings. In the long run it is going to cost the taxpayers more if the money is not budgeted."

The board finally approved a $196,321 budget for the EOC, as recommended by Tarshes, with the promise that the request will be reconsidered prior to adoption of the final budget next Wednesday.

Clifford Boxley, head of the Probe Neighborhood Center near Redwood City, an EOC contract agency, told the board the action "will keep us in limbo a little longer."

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

The cost of filling a prescription for the same medicine can depend upon where you shop.

Mr. X. received seven different prices . . . eight if the druggist had not made an honest mistake . . . for an identical prescription for 30 capsules of 0.25 Indocin.

Mr. X. asked his physician how much it would cost to have the prescription filled and was told "because of the small quantity involved the price could conceivably vary."

No law indicates how much a drug store may charge retail customers for prescription medicine. Mr. X. found shopping for the best price on a prescription difficult as most drug stores refuse to give out costs over the telephone, so he decided to spend some time shopping around. He sent the following results of his survey to the Better Business Bureau.

"I visited the following druggists in the order mentioned between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. Drug Store No. 1, cost of prescription, $4.50; at drug store No. 2, I was given a price of $9. When I raised my eyebrows, said "whew" and started to leave, the druggist ran after me and said, Sir, may I see that prescription again?" He rechecked some sheet, returned and said, would you believe $3.49?"

Mr. X. continued his survey and found the cost at store 3 and store 4 to be the same, $4.90. The price at store 5 was $5.25 and in the same vicinity, store 6, $6.25.

"These results," Mr. X. continued, "led me to believe Drug Store 1 had probably given me the most honest price so I returned to make my purchase there. It was now about 6:30 p.m. and the druggist to whom I had spoken had left for the day. So a new druggist waited on me and yes, I now got a new price $4.70. When I inquired how it was possible to receive two prices for the same prescription from the same pharmacy within a space of three quarters of an hour, I was informed it was a matter of "Interpolation."

Mr. X. purchased the prescription in San Francisco for $3.85.

Air Officials' Precautions

Improved security at San Francisco International airport for customers and their property was discussed Wednesday in a meeting of airlines aides, airport officials, and policing agencies.

Airport Director James K. carr called for the session, which was one of a series begun in 1969.

Twenty-four key security people from the airlines, representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration's new security branch, and officers of the Federal Buraeu of Investigation, were among those taking part.

According to Carr, emphasis was given to specific procedures to be followed in case of highjackings and bomb threats involving airliners at the airport.

"A whole gamut of subjects was discussed," he said, ranging from identification of airlines and airport employes, delineation of responsibilities, communications, and problems related to baggage and air freight.

As a result, Carr said, steps will be taken to better insure the safety of airlines passengers and others of the 15 million people who visit the airport each year.

Elaborate Bunco Racket Is Smashed

The sheriff's office broke up an elaborate bunco racket at the Hilton Inn Wednesday afternoon that had so many potential victims that sheriff's deputies had to push their way in to break it up.

Arrested on charges of theft, grand theft and violations of the California Labor Code was Larry Stover Curtis, 29, who has been using the name Scott Sonntag in setting up a phony two-day labor recruiting agency at the inn at the San Francisco International Airport.

According to Sgts. Paul Giguiere and John Gaspari, Curtis had placed an ad Sunday in an East Bay newspaper saying that pipe fitters, boiler makers, machinists, welders, helpers, laborers and other crafts were needed and that excellent rates and benefits would be paid.

The ad said that interviews would be held on Monday and Tuesday in two rooms of the inn, giving the sheriff's office only a short time to complete its investigation and break up the racket.

Curtis went to a legitimate employment agency in San Francisco to hire two engineers and three office girls to give the operation a legitimate appearance. So convinced were the people Curtis hired that the operation was legitimate, that it took almost two hours for authorities to convince some his boss was running a bunco racket.

Curtis interviewed applicants the first day himself, but on the second day used the two engineers he had hired to talk to applicants.

The operation began to break up, however, when John J. Connelly, a 44-year-old Oakland iron worker, became suspicious when he was asked to pay $50 to retain his job, as were all other applicants.

According to Giguiere, approximately $800 had already been received in the day and a half the operation lasted.

Potential victims were told that the agency respresented a firm named "Evironment Control," which had ben hired by "American Services, Inc. of Los Angeles." They were told that "American Services" had been granted some property near Martinez by the Phillips corporation to build a plant. At times, the plant was represented as an anti-pollution operation and at other times it was supposed to be a plant to reclaim platinum.

Although Connelly told deputies he had to borrow $50 for the application fee, he became suspicious when he drove to Martinez and found no evidence of any site where a plant was supposed to be constructed.

Two other construction workers, Perry Hartman, a pipe fitter from Sunol, and Cliff Davis, a San Pablo iron worker, became suspicious and refused to pay the $50. They reported their experiences to Caspari.

Hartman called a telephone number which "Sonntag" had given him and found it nonexistent.

Officers checked with the Credit Bureau, where officials told them "Sonntag" was unable to produce any legitimate credit evidence except a California driver's license and social security card made out in the false name.

The two sergeants selected Deputy Jerry Restani to apply for a job, but when they went to the two rooms in the inn they found 30 men already waiting in line.

When they cleared the room, the officers reported, they discoveerd 82 completed applications, and that 16 applicants had made $50 deposits.

The employes in the office told the officers that "Sonntag" was only making period checks by telephone. Around 3 p.m., Giguiere reported Curtis phoned in and was informed everything was going all right. When he arrived a few minutes later he was taken into custody.
tin was put out.
